'And the Green Grass Grows . . .'

While youngsters like the lush growth in Central Park, city softballers don't. The Senior A City Softball League say they can't play in a half-wild field, and if the grass stays uncut because of strike of the city's outside workers, the league may have to suspend its schedule. But these three 10-year-olds prefer grass that's nice and tall and cool. Politics Charged In Road Building

Laing Says B.C. Program 'Scandalous'

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislative Reporter

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing today charged Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi with "scandalous abuse of power and position" and demanded the removal of politics from public works.

Mr. Laing issued a statement on his return from a tour of central and northern B.C. in which he asked for a highway authority "to remove our road planning from the straight political considerations now in control."

"Inconsistent patchwork paving is evident everywhere in the province . . . there is more vote-catching politics in public works today than for the past 20 years," he said.

The Liberal leader said that in Savona, in the home riding of Public Works Minister Gaglardi, rerouting of the Trans Canada Highway paralleled the old road running through the centre for about 1½ miles, but only 200 yards away from it.

"I charge this is a scandalous abuse of power and position," he said. "The residents of Savona so objected that now Gaglardi is spending thousands of dollars paving the road through Savona almost to Trans Canada standards."

MUST BE KEPT OPEN

"We must get some sort of highway plan and some authority that will remove our road planning from straight political considerations," he said.

Mr. Laing said the highly-praised northern Transprovincial Highway in the Huston-Burns Lake area had to be planked for long stretches to enable vehices to get through. Trucks have been banned for two and one-half months.

"We must keep these highways open every day in the year for both cars and trucks," he demanded, "and we can't implement this on a pay-as-you-go basis."

"Let's borrow money, put our highways in shape, and actually save dolars in maintenance at the same time, giving us year-round industrial activity.

"Last year Gaglardi spent almost $1,000,000 on the northern Transprovincial Highway, most of it used in submerging rock and gravel into mudholes," he added.

POLICE SEEK HUSBAND IN HAMMER BEATING

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Cecil Terry remained in an unchanged "critical" condition in General Hospital today, as police sought her husband in an effort to solve the sadistic hammer bludgeoning of the woman Monday morning.

Police were unable to interview the woman in hospital, and have issued a lower mainland pick-up for Mr. Terry, who disappeared before his wife was found brutally beaten in her home.

Police cars converged on the hospital Monday night when Mr. Terry was reported to have called and asked the condition of his wife. The caller made no appearance, and police continued the search for the husband.

A curtain of secrecy was thrown around the case by police, who refused to give any further information on the case.

Govt., Rebels Claim Victories

Guatemala Fighting Picture Confused; Both Sides Claim Wins

UNITED NATIONS, N.J. (UP)—Guatemala notified the United Nations today that the anti-Communist invasion of its country is going on despite the cease-fire order adopted by the Security Council on Sunday.

Guatemalan foreign minister Guillermo Toriello, in his third message to the world organization since the fighting began in his central American country, asked the council to take steps to halt the "invasion."

The Guatemalans did not, however, request a new council meeting to deal with the situation.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Government and rebel forces made rival victory claims today in the four-day-old battle for the Central American Republic of Guatemala. Both sides appeared to be mobolizing for a major fight over the key rail town of Zacapa.

President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's government claimed a success for its armed forces at Gualan, east of Zacapa, about 20 miles inside Guatemala. It said the rebels were run out of town after a brief skirmish, but mentioned no casualties.

The "liberation radio," speaking for the invasion forces of the exiled Guatemalan leader, Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, claimed the rebels hold 25 towns in Guatemala.

Associated Press dispatches from Guatemala City Monday night said Arbenz' troops were massing in the area of Zacapa, a city of some 8,000 on the main rail line between the capital and the Caribbean port of Puerto Barrios.

A rebel flier interviewed near the Honduran border said Castillo Armas' men also were moving by truck towards Zacapa. He said the invaders headed for the rail centre after seizing the cathedral town of Esquipulas in a five-hour battle. Three Guatemalan soldiers were reported killed in that engagement.

An informed source in this neighboring Honduran capital indicated that a fight for Zacapa is shaping up. He predicted the rebels would abandon their guerrilla tactics within the next 24 hours and seek a pitched battle with Arbenz' army.

The source also said:

1. At least two Guatemalan pilots have fled their country in training planes since the invasion began Friday.

2. Two railroad bridges at Gualan have been destroyed; sabotage along the line between Gualan and Pureto Barrios has increased; a train which left Guatemala City for the port of San Jose "simply disappeared."

3. The rebels have taken over the rail town of Morales, some 50 miles from Puerto Barrios.

French Premier to Meet With Chinese Red Chief

Mendes-France, Chou Discuss Indo-China War Wednesday

PARIS (UP) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France announced tonight that he will meet Chinese Communist premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai Wednesday in Berne, Switzerland, to discuss the Indo-China war.

Like Chou, Mendes-France acts as his own foreign minister.

The new premier's plan for the dramatic face-to-face meeting with the Red Chinese leader was approved by the first meeting of the French "new faces" cabinet appointed by Mendes-France to help him in his drive to bring peace to Indo-China within a month.

He said the meeting with Chou will take place "on French soil"—in the French embassy in Berne.

The French premier will leave for Berne tonight.

7 Mills, 21 Merchants, Official Announce Appeal of Sentences in Ontario Court

TORONTO (CP)—Fines totalling $242,000 were imposed today on seven paper mills, 21 wholesale paper merchants and a trade association secretary convicted June 4 of conspiring to fix the price of fine paper in Canada. All announced that they will appeal.

The "big four" mills in the Canadian fine paper industry were each fined $10,000, the maximum penalty, by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court. They are Howard Smith Paper Mills Ltd., Montreal; E. B. Eddy Co., Hull, Que.; Provincial Paper Ltd., subsidiary of Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Also fined $10,000 were Alliance Paper Mills Ltd., subsidiary of Howard Smith, and Don Valley Paper Co. Ltd., Toronto, owned by Alliance.

ONE FINED $4,000

Canada Paper Co., another Howard Smith subsidiary, was fined $4,000. The court was told it withdrew from the conspiracy after going out of the fine paper business in 1940.

Fined $10,000 each were the wholesale firms of Buntin Reid Paper Co. Ltd., Toronto; Fred W. Halls Paper Co Ltd., Toronto; Kruger Paper Co. Ltd., Montreal; T. B. Little Paper Limited, Montreal; McFarlane Son and Hodgson Limited, Montreal; La Compagnie J. B. Roland et Fils, Montreal; United Paper Mills Ltd., Toronto; Whyte-Hooke Papers Ltd., Toronto, and the Wilson Munroe Co. Ltd., Toronto. These firms were described as the nine largest wholesalers.

Other wholesalers fined $10,000 each were Buntin Gillies and Co. Ltd., Hamilton; Canada Paper "Wholesale" Limited, Toronto; Federal Paper Co. Ltd., Montreal, and T. Havill Paper Company, Montreal.

OTHER FINES

A fine of $8,000 was imposed on Browns Brothers Limited, Toronto. W. J. Gage and Co. Ltd of Toronto, was fined $4,000.

Fines of $5,000 each were assessed Fine Papers Limited, Toronto, and Fine Papers London Limited of London, Ont.

W. Ivan Moffitt, trade association secretary, was fined $4,000.

Norman L. Mathews, Crown counsel, had asked for the maximum fine of $10,000 for each of the firms and for Mr. Moffitt.

He also asked for an order forbidding them to resume price-fixing.

300 Reds Die As French Repel Surprise Attack

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—The Communists threw 3,000 troops in a surprise attack against a French base in central Indo-China but were beaten off with 300 killed, the French high command announced today.

The attack was made against Tuy Hoa, on the Annam coast north of Nhatrang and 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

The French said four Communist battalions swarmed against two all-Viet Namese battalions guarding Tuy Hoa during the night of Sunday and Monday.

A high command spokesman said the Viet Nam units fought "magnificently despite the fiercest assaults." He said 300 enemy dead were counted after the attackers withdrew.

Tuy Hoa seized by Franco-Viet Nam soldiers in an amphibious landing operation this spring as part of "Operation Atlante," designed to free some 3,000,000 persons from Communist rule in an 800-square-mile area.

Due to troop shortages during the siege of Dien Bien Phu and subsequent orders to reinforce the vital Red River Delta to the north, the operation was virtually abandoned but Tuy Hoa was held.

Earlier, the high command announced that French union forces killed or captured 144 Communists in an amphibious assault against one of the biggest rebel bases in the Red River Delta.

ZOO EMERGENCY

Struggle To Save Baby Seals

VANCOUVER (CP) — This city's famed Stanley Park zoo had the tense and excited air of a maternity hospital today as officials struggled to save the lives of three orphaned baby sea lions.

Allan Best, harried supervisor, said it may "be a week or 10 days before we know if we can save them," as he and his staff started forced feeding of the fuzzy little seals.

In the meantime, all visitors were being kept away from the enclosure, a ban that will stay on until the seals become stronger and able to take the excitement.

The tiny amphibians were given to the zoo by fishermen who adopted them while fishing in the coastal waters.

Best said that the seals are "healthy now, though quite thin," and added that they "can't say alive forever on forced feeding," which is carried out through a small tube inserted in the throats of the tiny lions.

$1,000 COUPON APPEARS TODAY

What's Your Guess On Flo's Swim Time?

Times readers can start today on the fascinating contest of estimating how long Florence Chadwick will remain in the water in her attempt to swim from Victoria to Port Angeles in August.

On Page 15 appears the first coupon giving full details of the way you can win $1,000 by coming up with the correct answer or closest to it.

The coupon will appear each Tuesday and Wednesday in the Times from now until August 4, which will be the last Wednesday before the target date for the swim. The regular subscribers will be assured of 14 coupons on which to make their estimates. But there is no limit to the number that can be entered by one person.

Timing of the swim will be down to the last second, being taken from the moment the starting gun is fired on the Victoria side, until she either touches bottom of the Port Angeles side, or finds she has to give up. The timing in the latter event is taken when she either touches her accompanying boat or is touched by her coaches to help her out.

People making estimates are asked to mail them each week, rather than save all coupons until the last minute. This is to lighten the task of the Solarium Junior League members who have agreed to count and sort the many thousands expected.

And don't forget the donation to the Solarium along with your estimate. Now turn to Page 15 and read the full rules.

Civic Strikers Make Concession

Agree to Co-Operate With City In Water Works, Sewer Emergencies

Striking city outside workers have agreed to co-operate with the city in respect to water works, sewer emergencies and burials at Ross Bay Cemetery.

City manager Cecil Wyatt made this announcement today following a one-hour meeting with officers of the Civic Employees' Protective Association.

It was the second meeting within 24 hours. Following a meeting Monday evening it was announced the union would provide limited operation of Johnson Street bridge for the duration of the strike.

A member of the association manned the bridge from 7.30 to 9.30 this morning, and another was scheduled to provide service from 2 till 4 p.m.

PICKETS WITHDRAWN

Pickets were withdrawn from the bridge entirely today.

The union will provide this four-hour service on a seven-day-a-week basis. Until today, the bridge had been operated on a restricted basis by E & N railway people.

Mr. Wyatt said there is still no meeting scheduled between the two sides to discuss settlement of the six-day-old walkout.

$14,000 IN WAGES

The men have missed four working days, and have lost an estimated $14,000 in wages.

Men stationed at the garbage wharf reported no one has shown up for work there since last Friday, and that no garbage has been dumped.

Cecil Holt, president of the association, meantime, has denied any connection between his union and pamphlets reportedly issued by the Labor Progressive party, dealing with the strike.

Premier, Jean Lesage Meet July 14

Federal Minister of Natural Resources and Northern Affairs Jean Lesage will confer with Premier W. A. C. Bennett on vital B.C. expansion plans on July 14.

Premier Bennett's office today confirmed eastern reports of the top-level parley, but said no definite agenda has been set for the meeting. Mr. Lesage will be in the province as part of an extensive tour of western Canada.

Reports from Ottawa say the federal cabinet member will discuss the pending Frobisher development in northern B.C. during the talks. He is expected to reaffirm the federal government's refusal to allow Alcoa, Frobisher's rival for northern B.C. water rights, Canadian Yukon water for U.S. developments in nearby Skagway, Alaska.

Ottawa has an absolute veto on the export of water power, and has repeatedly turned down the Alcoa proposal.

Storm Blamed For 3 Deaths In S. Ontario

Two Oshawa Men Believed Drowned When Boat Spills

TORONTO (BUP)—A violent wind and thunderstorm whipped across southern Ontario Monday night, caused at least three deaths, ruined possibly several hundred thousand dollars' worth of crops and tore down hydro lines wherever it hit.

Two Oshawa men still were missing today and believed drowned off Bowmanville where they had gone with two others on a fishing trip. The victims, Doug Stone and Fred Lewis, were dumped in the water when a sudden gust capsized their motor boat. Robert Bickle swam 500 yards to shore for help and the third man Vincent Gorman, was picked up by a tugboat.

The heavy downpour also was blamed for a head-on collision of two trucks in suburban Etobicoke that killed a Weston, Ont., grocer. Cecil Ella, 40, died instantly and his four-year-old son, Paul, suffered severe head and leg injuries in the crash.

The storm cut a wide path across southern Ontario, ripped up trees, tore down wires and struck at least three homes and a church with lightning.

Toronto bore the brunt of the blow. Power lines were torn down in 16 districts, and offshore four American yachtsmen, tossed out of their sloop, were saved 30 minutes later by harbor police.

In suburban Scarboro, firemen were called to put out a blaze in a tabernacle hit by lightning. In East York, a groceteria's plate glass window was blown in, and at Leaside, booths in Millwood Park were blown across a street.

Oakville residents were without power for at least three hours and the town council had to cancel its meeting. Hamilton residents also were bothered with black-outs, but the storm avoided the Niagara fruit belt.

A Trans-Canada airliner heading for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was forced to return to Toronto when the storm made flying too dangerous.

Ward's Fiance Says Drug Tools Planted

Mystery Surrounding Young Heir's Death Clouded by Tangled Will, Party, Narcotics

CHICAGO (UP)—Mystery surrounding the death of a young heir to a $1,000,000 fortune was further clouded today with revelations of narcotics equipment, a tangled will and an early-hours birthday party.

The new developments emerged during a stormy inquest Monday into the death of 20-year-old Montgomery Ward Thorne last Saturday in his north side studio apartment.

Law officers testified they found two hypodermic syringes in Thorne's apartment, one pasted to the bathroom ceiling and the other hidden in a bottle of nose drops.

However, Thorne's 18-year-old fiance, Maureen Ragen, said she was convinced the needles had been "planted" in an effort to make him appear to be a narcotics addict.

Miss Ragen said she was also sure that needle marks found on Thorne's arms were also "planted." She said he usually wore short sleeved shirts and she would have noticed the marks if they had been there earlier.

Thorne's attorney, Jay Stough, testified that the youth had "asked me how he could investigate what his mother had done with his money and about his guardianship."

Stough's associate, Joseph R. Julian, added that Thorne came to him last Friday and said something had "gone very, very wrong" with the administration of his father's estate.

Julian said Thorne also asked that his death be investigated if he died. Stough said earlier that Thorne feared he wouldn't reach his 21st birthday.

Authorities meanwhile investigated a young advertising copy writer's birthday party which was in progress across the street the night Thorne died.

A lawyer for Thorne's mother, Mrs. Marion Thorne, said that Suzanne Rooks, an aquatic performer who attended the party, had said the young heir had called at her apartment in the same building at 4 a.m. Saturday morning.

Mrs. Thorne's attorney, Bartlett S. Marimon, said young Thorne may have been confused by his mother's efforts to make his inheritance more readily available to him.

The entire $2,600,000 estate of the late Gordon Thorne is in a complicated legal tangle, Marimon said.

He made the statement after it was revealed that Gordon Thorne's will is missing from the files of the probate court clerk and that his son knew this.

COMPLICATIONS

Young Thorne was the grandson of a former president of Montgomery Ward & Co. He was eventually to have inherited half of his father's estate.

The disposition of the fortune was further complicated when the young heir changed his will 10 days before he died. He asked that one half of it go to Miss Ragen, with the rest divided between Miss Ragen's mother, his own mother and a relative.

A legal battle was expected over the new will. A previous will made when Thorne was 18, left his entire estate to his mother.

U.S. Steel, Union Hit Snag In Pact Talks

Arrangements Made For Strike Action

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), have hit a snag in their contract talks, a source close to the negotiations said today.

The source, who declined to be quoted by name, said the trouble could be considered serious. No indication was given as to what issue was involved.

Officials of union locals across the country, the source said, have received unofficial word to make preliminary arrangements for a strike.

The union's contract with U.S. Steel expires June 30. The union could call a strike any time after that. The source, said however, that there is great confidence on both sides that a strike will be averted.

The source said negotiators met all day Monday after a week-end recess.

David J. McDonald, union president, met today with his leaders to discuss the negotiations.

UNSPECIFIED RAISE

The union, which received an 8½-cent-an-hour boost last year, has asked for an unspecified raise. Its American members now average from $2.14 to $2.24 an hour.

McDonald also has urged liberalized hospitalization and pension programs, as well as other contract changes.

Big Steel has been silent on what it would offer, if anything.

There has been considerable speculation that Big Steel will not agree to a wage raise—at least not a large one—but might go along with better pensions and liberalized hospitalization programs.

The union also demanded a guaranteed annual wage. It is thought Big Steel might agree to study the proposal.

'LOOK ME OVER CLOSELY,' AND THEY DID

Dietrich's Transparent Gown Wows 500 Londoners

LONDON (UP) — Marlene Dietrich, wearing an evening gown transparent from the waist up, was an eye-popping hit Monday night in her debut at Cafe de Paris in the heart of London's movie district.

Crowds jammed the streets to watch the celebrities. Celebrities jammed the cafe to watch Marlene. Marlene sang some songs, including one entitled "Look Me Over Closely."

Noel Coward introduced Marlene to more than 500 persons "shoehorned" into the cabaret which normally accommodates about 300. Then Marlene made her entrance, wearing a rhinestone encrusted flesh-colored chiffon dress, with a white fox scarf thrown over her shoulders.

Marlene opened with some of the songs from her movie hits. They included "Falling In Love Again," and "See What the Boys in the Back Room Will Have."

Nobody seemed to care about the boys in the back room so she swung into the new tune, "Look Me Over Closely." Everyone did.

In her husky, slightly-accented voice, Marlene intoned:

"Look me over closely,
Tell me what you see,
A lady likes to look her best
Before she pours the tea."

Reserve Units Dealt Shakeup

Claxton Reveals 20-Point Program To Strengthen All Reserve Forces

OTTAWA (BUP)—A wholesale shake-up of Canada's reserve forces is under way to put them in war-ready shape.

While his 1954-55 spending plans were under scrutiny in the Commons Monday night, Defense Minister Brooke Claxton, revealed a 20-point program for complete reorganization of the reserve. He said the program would "relate them more closely to possible wartime requirements, effective peacetime training and local support."

Conditions will be made more attractive to recruit young men and women for the reserve forces. Training methods will be streamlined, and better equipment and other facilities will be provided, he said.

The Canadian Army (Reserve Force) will be renamed the Canadian Army Militia, Claxton said, while the Canadian Army (Active) will be known as the Canadian Army Regular. A new directorate, combining the militia and cadets, will be established at army headquarters here.

Accommodation and training facilities for the military are under review and new construction and additional facilities will be provided. Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson already has been appointed as adviser to the chief of the general staff in all militia matters.

Claxton said grants for bands would be boosted and provision of intruments would be speeded up under a replacement program, and income taxes would be deducted at the source for any militia personnel who so desired.

The decision to institute the reorganization was made after "detailed study and consideration" of a secret report on the reserve forces.

The report, long sought by the opposition in the Commons, was submitted to the chief of the general staff in January. The special committee which investigated the reserves and drafted the report was made up of three major-generals — Howard Kennedy, E. J. Renaud and Letson.

Program 'Unanimously Approved'

Claxton said the steps to be taken reflected the "views of the reserve force itself, as ascertained and weighed by the committee under (Kennedy)." The reorganization program had been "unanimously approved" by the conference of defense association, representing the 12 different corps associations and "every single unit in reserve forces."

"The changes proposed are planned to tap the resources of interested and available personnel so as to provide the best basis for the building up of forces that may be required in the second or later stages of another world war," Claxton said. "The overall number of units will be substantially reduced.

"It is expected that at the outset these changes may result in some reductions in the total number of officers and men on strength. But it is expected that they will result in more effective use of personnel.

"The role of the reserve force of the army today is . . . to provide a partially trained and equipped force as the nucleus of units to be mobilized and brought up to strength in the case of an emergency. The effectiveness of the reserve force depends upon a strong hard core of volunteers, and it also depends on the active support of Canadian people throughout the country."

A number of artillery units will be converted to an anti-tank defense role, since that role was transferred some time ago from the artillery to the armored corps, Claxton said. Excess anti-aircraft would be converted to "other types of artillery or amalgamated with units of other corps."

"As coast defense has become the primary responsibility of the navy and air force, the coast defense units will become harbor defense batteries," he said. "As the type of training in field park squadrons is not suited to the reserve force, field park squadrons of the reserve force will be converted to or included in field squadrons.

A device has been developed to weigh bits of protein of extremely small mass by measurement of the amount of X-ray absorbed by the pieces tested.

Local Officers 'In the Dark' On Army Plan

Scottish Told To 'Carry On'

Victoria reserve (militia) army commanders today said "we are as much in the dark as ever" about how their units will be affected by the sweeping changes in the reserve set-up announced by Defense Minister Brooke Claxton in the House of Commons Monday night.

The commanders said they had received no word on how they would be involved in the reshuffle of the reserve force.

Mr. Claxton's report dealt with the broad picture on the future design of the reserve army, now to be known as the Canadian Army Militia. He did not identify units.

The commanders believe they will learn particulars concerning their units through B.C. Area Command, Vancouver. Area command officials told the Times by telephone today "we have received no orders concerning the changes as yet."

None of the local officers wished to speculate on the report. "It would be straight guesswork," said Lieut.-Col. Walter J. Mosedale, ED, commander of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

"We have tried to find out how much the changes involve the Scottish because of our training schedule, but we were told to 'carry on as usual'."

The report does not tell of any plan to disband units.

Frederick Sinnott Dies on Mainland

Frederick Ernest Sinnott, brother of Victoria lawyer, P. J. Sinnott, died at his North Vancouver home Monday night. He was 53 years old.

Well-known in Victoria, Mr. Sinnott was employed by the inspection branch of the department of national defense. He was a lieutenant in the engineering branch of the RCN (R), attached to HMCS Discovery, and served with the active navy during Second World War.

After the war, he served at sea aboard commercial vessels. One of these was the luxury ship Corsair which ran on a reef of Acapulco a few years ago.

He is survived by his wife and daughter, Frances, 10, as well as four brothers, Pat, Frank, Herbert and George.

DISARMAMENT PARLEY ENDS IN FAILURE

LONDON (Reuters)—A secret five-power conference on world disarmament in session here since May 13 ended today in failure.

The conference, held its last meeting this afternoon under the chairmanship of the Soviet Ambassador to Britain, Jakob Malik.

Its final task was the approval of a report recording disagreement on atomic and conventional disarmament to be submitted to the United Nations disarmament commission.

The report will be published on Thursday.

BIT 2 POLICEMEN, WRECKED JAIL

'The Body' McDonald Faces Drug Charge

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Actress Marie (The Body) McDonald was to be arraigned today on charges that she crashed her convertible into three cars while under the influence of drugs and resisted police with screams, kicks and bites.

The shapely blonde spent four hours in Beverly Hills city jail Monday after two patrolmen arrested her.

Complaints had reached headquarters that the actress was driving erratically through the swank community. She hit three parked cars, one of which bounced into another vehicle.

Officers said they found her sitting "in a dazed condition" in her Cadillac convertible. She was taken to a first aid station, where a police surgeon reported she was "under the influence of narcotics."

"Her eyes were dilated and her speech irrational," the doctor's report said.

The actress, who soared to pin-up fame as "The Body" of the movies, before she retired temporarily four years ago, told officers she had taken two tablets of nembutal, a sedative. Later she changed her statement to "two seconals and two nembutals."

A gold case containing pills was found in the glove compartment of her automobile and taken as evidence.

When her husband, wealthy shoe magnate Harry Karl, arrived at the Beverly Hills jail, he insisted she had taken the tablets to clam her nerves the day before.

"The Body" was not calm when she was booked on charges of hit-run driving, driving without a license and operating a vehicle under the influence of narcotics. She bit two policemen, kicked another and screamed as she was taken to a cell.

After the doors clanged behind her, she took off her high-heeled shoe and broke the window and light bulb in the cell.

"She was belligerent and unco-operative," the police report said.

Karl explained his wife had been ill from a chronic nervous spasm but she believed she was well enough Monday to visit the hairdresser.

"She was all right when she left the house," he said. "She just hit a few cars, that's all. Then she got mad at the cops so they took her in."

General Keller Dead After Normandy Visit

Leader of 3rd Canuck Division Has Heart Attack in London

OTTAWA (CP)—The man who commanded the first Canadians ashore when the Allies invaded Europe during the Second World War has died on his way home from a visit to his former battleground.

The army reported the death Monday night in London of Maj.-Gen. R. F. L. Keller, whose 3rd Canadian division was the first of this country's forces to hit the Normandy beaches on D-Day.

He and other veterans had visited the village of Arromanches, near the spot where Allied forces landed June 6, 1944, and taken part in ceremonies commemorating the 10th anniversary of the fighting there.

The army said it believed the 53-year-old retired professional soldier died of a heart attack. Gen. Keller, who lived in Kelowna, B.C., in recent years, led his troops through the Normandy landing and the battle of Caen, but within two months of the invasion's beginning, a misdirected bomb from an Allied plane ended his military career permanently.

Gen. Keller was severely wounded in the arm Aug. 9, 1944, as he and his men fought toward Falaise. He was evacuated to hospital in England and when sufficiently recovered was sent back to Canada, where he retired.

For a time after his retirement, he and his family lived in Victoria. They later moved to Kelowna, where Gen. Keller had spent his boyhood. He held the MBE and the French Legion of Honor.

Gen. Keller earned a reputation as a businesslike and effective officer, tough but understanding in his handling of men, and was known for his knowledge of all arms. When in September, 1942, he was promoted to major-general and put in command of the third division, he was the second youngest officer of that rank in the army.

Surviving are his widow and two sons, Rodney Alan in Vancouver, and Michael in Kelowna. The body will be flown to Kelowna for burial.

General Keller's wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Melville Webb, 36 Sylvan Lane.

Tribute Paid Gen. Keller

LONDON (CP)—Brig. J. E. C. Pangman of Toronto, army member of the Canadian joint staff in London, said today that Canada has lost an outstanding soldier and a loyal citizen with the death Monday night of Maj.-Gen. R. F. L. Keller of Kelowna, B.C., wartime commander of the 34rd Canadian division.

"Though I did not have the privilege of serving under Gen. Keller I knew him to have been one of Canada's outstanding soldiers," Pangman said in a statement. "He led the 3rd Canadian Division on the Normandy assaults on D-Day, June 6, 1944, with outstanding success.

"It was unfortunate that such a promising career was hampered by the serious wounds he received on the road to Falaise in August, 1944. Canada has lost a loyal citizen."

NO 'FALL IN' ORDER FOR BRIGADIERS

High army brass doffed uniforms today and took time off from commanding soldiers to try military tactics on salmon.

Three brigadiers are seeking salmon off South Saturna Island.

They are F. N. Cabeldu, Second World War brigade leader, Victoria; Jean Allard, former commander of the 25th Canadian Brigade in Korea, and William Megill, B.C. area commander. With them is Lieut.-Col. J. C. Cave, local army commander.

They are guests aboard the cruiser Gay Feathers, owned by Brig. Cabeldu.

Brig. Allard leaves tonight for Ottawa.

Yearly loss of oil due to evaporation is estimated to be worth $60,000,000. About four of each 100 barrels of crude oil in storage evaporate into the air each year.

Gas and Railways

SOONER OR LATER THE United States will want natural gas from Canada, as much as it can get. Its use of gas is increasing rapidly, its own supplies are being depleted. The present success of American companies in barring British Columbia gas from the Pacific Northwest States must therefore be considered temporary.

Two plans are suggested to overcome the decision of the United States power commission, if it is not reversed by a court appeal already under way. Canadian gas interests hope to secure a market in California which would justify a costly pipe line from the Peace River country. Mr. Byron Johnson, among others, has suggested that the British Columbia Government help to finance a pipe line to the American border in the expectation that the United States would buy gas when it was available close at hand.

The first project is obviously preferable since it avoids both uncertainty and cost to the provincial treasury. If, however, private interests cannot finance a pipe line, lacking a sufficient market, and the public treasury is asked to help them, the project will require very careful consideration.

The Government of British Columbia is about to assume a gigantic new debt to finance the extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway northward and southward, with no assurance that these expenditures will pay for themselves. It can hardly be expected to double those borrowings to finance a pipe line at the same time, with no assurance that the United States will buy our gas.

Mr. Johnson evidently thinks that the pipe line is more important to the development of British Columbia than the railway, though he has always advocated its extension, and he may well be right. The railway is designed to open up the north and even if it succeeds that process will take time. An ample supply of relatively cheap gas will instantly serve the industry and households of the populous lower mainland area. The pipeline, therefore, might be a better investment for the Government than the railway.

Premier Bennett has had little time to consider this matter but he says already that his railway plan is going ahead, regardless of the gas situation, even though his Government had counted heavily on northern gas development to provide new traffic for the PGE. He would be wise to consider his investment policy, and its resulting debt, anew after the gas interests have finally explored their chance of entering the American market.

These problems are interlocking, both involve the industrial future of the Province and both may involve the taxpayers through an expansion of the provincial debt. They should not be settled by any snap decision or by the Government's political convenience.

In detail they are complex, in essence simple: Where can the people's money be best invested—in a railway, in a pipeline, in roads or other capital projects? For clearly the Government's means are limited and, indeed, already are stretched pretty thin by its current expenditure (the largest per capita in Canadian history) and by its present borrowing program. While it seems to have plenty of revenues at the moment to cover all these commitments (at the cost of the highest taxation rate in Canada) these easy conditions may not always continue, as many former Governments have found.

For all these reasons Mr. Bennett should take time, in the light of the American power commission's decision, to re-examine carefully the railway scheme, the proposed pipe line and the over-all position of the provincial treasury.

He Has Not Spared Himself

VICTORIANS, WHO KNOW HIM well, and the many Canadians who admire the service he has rendered Canada, will join in sympathy for Mr. Robert W. Mayhew, who has suffered a collapse in Japan.

As federal member for this city, as Minister of Fisheries, and more recently as Canada's first ambassador to Japan, Mr. Mayhew has earned the respect of all who knew him. Although well on in years he accepted the ambassadorial post as a call of duty. He said at that time he wished only to establish the embassy and turn it over to other hands at the end of a year.

That period was extended, however, at the Prime Minister's special request, with the result that Mr. Mayhew agreed to remain in Tokyo until retirement in September. He has not spared himself in his work. No job is a sinecure as far as Bob Mayhew is concerned. The result is that overwork has caused him to collapse while at an official function, and to enter a hospital for an extended rest.

The occurrence may persuade Mr. Mayhew to seek retirement earlier than had been planned. But whether or not he finishes out his term of office he will return to his home here with the thanks of a grateful country for a job well done.

Easing the Appeal Burden

BRITISH COLUMBIA WILL shortly have six members on its Court of Appeal. Announcement of pending legislation to increase the number by one should be of wide interest to the people of the province.

A six-man court can, when necessary, permit simultaneous sittings of three members each, thereby speeding legal processes now often delayed by heavy case loads. How often that procedure will be followed is a matter of conjecture at this time, but once the new appointment is made the machinery will exist for quicker disposal of appeals as they arise.

At the same time the larger membership will permit the full court of five to sit more frequently on important cases—a highly desirable development. At present it is difficult to muster the full strength of that branch of the judiciary at any one time. Some members are almost invariably engaged in the important work of the court which is not done on the bench.

The court itself should benefit greatly from its enlargement. For some time now increasing litigation inevitable with a growing provincial population has thrust a heavy burden on members.

It is to be hoped the Government will exercise the best of judgment in selecting its appointee. The addition of a new member, important as it is to the mechanics of the court, can be of secondary importance only to the calibre of the man chosen for the post.

The World's Best Will Compete

ONLY TWO MEN IN ALL HISTORY have run a recorded mile in less than four minutes. One of them is Roger Bannister of England, who a few weeks ago startled the world by speeding over the distance in three minutes, 59.4 seconds. On Monday this feat was exceeded by John Landy, of Australia, who ran the classic stretch in 3:58.

In August these two record-breakers will match strides at the British Empire Games in Vancouver. If anything additional had been needed to assure world interest in the meet, this contest surely is it.

Vancouver has raised nearly the whole budget of two and a half million dollars which will be required to stage the Games. Victoria is now participating in a drive to complete the total, and it is to be hoped that no question of financing will be permitted to embarrass the city that is host for a major event in Commonwealth athletics and a project of first importance to Vancouver and British Columbia generally.

Watch That Cigarette Butt

SO FAR THIS YEAR BRITISH Columbia's forest fire problems have been less than they have been for any similar period in recent years.

Suppression work had cost only $17,000 to last week-end, against $30,000 for the equivalent period last year and $70,000 for the same time in 1952.

That is an encouraging situation attributed, in the opinion of the B.C. Forest Service, almost entirely to the weather.

The picture could change within a week. Last Friday brush went up in flame on Mount Douglas. That illustrates how close the woods are to an inflammable condition in spite of the rain and humidity of the late spring. Four or five hot days could raise the hazard to a point of anxiety to forestry officials.

There is little danger of a forest closure in the immediate future. But there is already a need for caution. Motorists who throw burning butts from their cars, campers who leave their fires smouldering, can touch off the woods at any time now. They are the ones to whom the forestry officials make their direct appeal. That appeal is for increasing care as the summer progresses.

CONCERT HALL—NOT TOO BIG

Victoria needs a concert hall, not too large, where "individual" music in its highest form, i.e., violin and cello solo work, can combat its long-range, carefully planned, black-out.

There are tens of thousands of string solo compositions, technically easier than concertos, which local players could perform without effort, never heard in Victoria, because too individualistic.

Dozens of local amateur string quartettes could be formed so that even the chamber music of Vaughn Williams, so very English, could be heard.

To describe adequately the devilish ingenuity with which mature individualistic string solo work has been blacked-out, a book would need to be written.

EXERCISE 'ALERT'

Through the courtesy of your columns I should like to thank all the Civil Defense personnel who took part in the exercise on Monday, June 14. I am sure the public realizes how much time and thought are given to the preparation of such an exercise.

The Boy Scouts, Red Cross, and St. John Ambulance placed the whole of their organizations at our disposal.

The gratitude of everyone goes out to St. John Ambulance Brigade who, in the middle of their own very busy season, found time to help with the first aid work which they brought to a high standard. Under Dr. W. S. Simpson, about thirty St. John workers toiled from the middle of the afternoon preparing the faked "casualties" which helped to make the exercise so realistic.

Many lessons have been learned from the exercise, and with more training and more thought it is hoped to have one on a larger scale in a few months' time.

DEFINING IMMORTALITY

Mr. Tom Clark's definition of immortality quoted from I Timothy 6:16, as reported in the Times of Wednesday, June 9, conflicts with any analytical concordance or standard dictionary that I have examined, in which it gives as follows: Immortality-deathlessness: Having unending existence; death an impossibility.

The Greek word is Athanasia, from which immortality is translated, and only appears three times in the English revised version. I Timothy 6:16 is a statement of fact that God only hath immortality.

I Corinthians 15:53 and 54 hold out the prospect of immortality. Christians will attain to this state at the resurrection of the dead.

Mr. Clark also appears hazy on the scriptural definition of spirit and soul, for he suggests that they are one and the same, whereas Thessalonians 5:23 divides the person into three parts, i.e., spirit (pneuma), soul (psyche) and body (suma). Neither of these parts have immortality.

'RED' FLUORIDATION

In a former letter I reported that Rena M. Vale, an American counterpart for Igor Gouzenko, testified that Communism is the ardent sponsor of the fluoridation movement and that the claim of being "a protection for children's teeth" is a fraud.

The following is an excerpt from "I Live Again" by Princess Ileana of Roumania:

"One of the most vile Red leaders is Anna Pauker of Roumania, who has caused death and suffering to millions. A few months ago she was disciplined for a time and then given another office. Her crime was in talking too much. Moscow found out that she had let out a secret weapon as to how the Reds would take over America. In a moment of bragging she let slip to me that the United States would 'be taken over' by the acquisition of the water-supply. It would not be a destruction of the water, but control of it. This is in conformity with the plans set forth by Lenin—'Get control of the public health agencies and furnish the keystone in the arch of the socialized state.'"

Yet in the face of such condemning facts as these and the fallacy of fluoridation as revealed by the bio-chemist, the Canadian Medical Association declares for this poison. In heaven's name, why?

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

From the Wilderness

SAFELY installed in the wilderness between a roaring wood fire and the soft patter of raindrops which cheerfully proclaim our Island summer, I can now look back, like an escaped prisoner, upon a recent visit to Seattle. It seems far away, in another world and I hope it stays there.

Hutchison

Of course I have nothing against Seattle. It is a beautiful city which, by the way, might have belonged to Canada if the statesmen of Britain hadn't botched the Oregon boundary negotiations of 1846.

I DO not grudge the Americans their city, their Northwest States or, indeed, any of their possessions. I mean only that, from this dank perch in the great Island woods, any city, large or small, looks grim and forbidding. At this safe distance, where no colleague or reader can reach me, I can afford to take a pretty dim view of civilization at large, provided that my wood supply lasts until the arrival of summer, a rather doubtful assumption.

Everything about a great American city is contrived to make the visitor feel welcome. The immigration and customs officials are courteous and understanding, the hotel people treat you like an honored guest and in the restaurants the waitresses, I am bound to say, are even more attentive than those of Canada. Besides, the food is edible and that, to a Canadian, is a miracle. Nevertheless, to a confirmed yokel, the whole experience is terrifying.

I AM terrified, to begin with, by an airplane. Looking out the window, I suddenly realize, as if it were an entirely new discovery, that there is nothing between me and the earth, thousands of feet below, but a paper-thin integument of aluminum. After years of flying I still cannot believe that flight is possible and I never ascend without confidently expecting to descend in several separate pieces.

Then I am always terrified by the immigration officers, however friendly, and as I stand in line I search the secret record of my life for some crime of moral turpitude, some forgotten homocide or burglary, some temporary lapse into communism. When the customs officers open my bag I always wonder whether, in a fit of absent-mindedness, I have secreted within it some article of contraband, perhaps a bottle of illegal beverage or a million dollars worth of diamonds. Finally I am always terrified of great hotels where, it seems to me, the smiling room clerk knows some hideous secret of my past and will report me to the police.

IF you add to those preliminary horrors the spectacle of a great international convention, a vast auditorium crowded by some 8,000 silent listeners, all those 16,000 eyes fastened upon the speaker, you will perhaps understand my moment of ultimate terror in Seattle. I tell you it shakes a yokel to the very mainsprings of his yokelry.

As it happened, I was standing before the gathered Rotarians of the world. Now, I am bound to say that Rotarians and other luncheon-club persons of that species have suffered a good deal of misunderstanding since Sinclair Lewis invented the repulsive character of Mr. Babbitt and apparently regarded him as the composite of every American who earned more than an average salary.

NOT knowing much about such men, I had expected to find them a hard-boiled lot under their contrived geniality and pretty complacent, to say the least, about the perfect American Way of Life. Instead, I found them quite unlike the caricature usually presented by foreign novelists.

You would think, to read many of the public prints, that a Rotary convention spends its time between a saturnalia in hotel bedrooms and an earnest discussion on methods of increasing the profits of business. Instead, I found on the platform beside me two young men, one from Norway, the other from Australia, and a lovely girl from York, England, who had been brought to American universities, at the expense of international Rotary, and there educated free of charge.

WHAT were the cynical businessmen of America chiefly discussing? They were discussing plans by which this hopeful experiment in internationalism could be expanded beyond a few hundred foreign students to thousands. That is the side of the American character which somehow always gets lost in the headlines and buried under the appalling testimony of Congressional committees. Therein lies the most extraordinary fact of American life—the fact that people who seem to have mastered all the arts of communication and publicity have failed, more lamentably than any other people on earth, to communicate and publicize their own nature.

Yet how eager they are for such communication, how humbly they accept the criticism of ignorant foreigners like this reporter and how pathetically grateful for any small crumbs of approval!

THESE are a great people—as a convention delegate from South America remarked to me—because, under all their outer air of confidence, they are so desperately anxious to learn, and by the measurement of historic time are probably learning more rapidly than any other people on earth.

Thus one's original terror instantly evaporates when the Americans are seen at first hand, no longer in the paper guise of the headlines but in the flesh. So I thought that, after escaping to the jungle, I owed it to my hosts to say that I am not frightened any more, except of my dwindling woodpile.

Will Indo-Chinese Buffer States Meet the Red Threat?

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

A PLAN to guarantee Thailand against Communist aggression is now taking shape within the Eisenhower administration. The purpose, of course, is to contain the consequences of the smashing Communist victory that now seems likely in Indo-China. A similar idea has long been current in the British government. Hence it is certain that the project of the guarantee to Thailand will be one of the themes of the Eisenhower-Churchill-Dulles-Eden talks this week.

Joseph

The chances are good that the final decision will be to offer a military guarantee to Thailand. If so, other Asian nations will certainly be asked to join in the guarantee. Whether or no the French will also be asked to do so depends on the policy of the new premier, Pierre Mendes-France, and on developments in Indo-China.

The French attitude is important, since the American and British policy makers still hope to include the small states of Laos and Cambodia in their scheme, and thus to salvage these states from the general wreck in Indo-China.

Laos is a hilly little kingdom populated by a people of Thai blood. Cambodia, to the south, does not have a predominantly Thai population, but has close links to Thailand.

Cambodia's border provinces moreover, once formed a part of Thailand. These two states, where only very small Communist forces are operating as yet, lie along the Thai border.

Together, therefore, Cambodia and Laos would form a valuable buffer between Thailand and the main Indo-Chinese state of Viet Nam, where the Communist rot is now so far advanced.

The idea, then, is to join Laos and Cambodia with Thailand, in a federation that would collectively undertake the common defense against Communist attack or infiltration. The whole federation would be guaranteed. This scheme of federation is now reported to be favored by the kings of Cambodia and Laos. It has long been actively advocated in Thailand.

The American ambassador to Bangkok, Gen. William Donovan, has recently been in Washington to press the federation idea. The difficulty remains, however, that Laos and Cambodia, like the state of Viet Nam, are members of the French Union.

Putting it very mildly, it is doubtful how Paris will react to a scheme for federating two of the French Union's member-states with Thailand which has no connection with the Union; and then giving the resulting federation an Anglo-American-international guarantee.

The British attitude, on the other hand, was made clear some years ago, in one of the earlier Indo-Chinese crises. At that time, the French authorities were enraged by the appearance of British agents in the Cambodian and Laotian capitals, Pnomh Penh and Luang Prabang, with just the sort of program that has been set forth above.

In short, London has always thought of a resistance line on the Laotian-Cambodian border as a possible ace-in-the-hole in the dangerous game being played in South Asia.

Stewart

In Geneva, accordingly, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden has firmly persisted in excluding Cambodia and Laos from the discussions of an Indo-Chinese settlement (which might better be called the discussions of an Indo-Chinese surrender.)

The Communist efforts to infiltrate Laos and Cambodia have been stepped up in recent months, but have met with no great success as yet. On this ground, Eden has insisted that Cambodia and Laos are in quite a different category from Viet Nam, which is the scene of the main Indo-Chinese struggle.

But besides the very important question about the French attitude to the Thai-Laotian-Cambodian federation, there is another question of even greater importance. Eden's insistence on placing Cambodia and Laos in a special category have been met, at Geneva, with downright brutal counter-insistence by Molotov, Chou En-lai and the Vietminh delegation. They have never receded from the position that Cambodia and Laos must be included in any general Indo-Chinese settlement.

In other words, as the stepped-up pressure on these states also indicates, the Communists seem to be determined to grab Cambodia and Laos as well as Viet Nam.

How hard will they fight to get what they want? Are Britain and America willing to fight to prevent the Communists from getting what they want? And what will the new French government do in this situation?

There are no sure answers to these questions. Hence it is not as yet clear whether the Thai-Laotian-Cambodian federation project will come to anything. It could provide the occasion for drawing a line, and saying to the Communist side, "Thus far and no further." But Laos and Cambodia could also be left out, and a guarantee could be offered to Thailand alone.

The new trend of policy is decidedly encouraging, in the sense that the need to draw some sort of line in South Asia is being recognized. But in another sense, it is melancholy and depressing: for the new trend implies passive acceptance of a species of super-Munich in Asia, after which, and only after which, the line will finally be drawn.

Viet Nam-Czechoslovakia is to be abandoned. The defenses of South Asia are to be mortally weakened by the withdrawal of the French Expeditionary Corps of 10 divisions and the total loss of the American-armed Vietnamese force of more than 200,000 men. And after this tremendous triumph for the Communists and appalling defeat for the West, Thailand-Poland is to be guaranteed, in order to prevent a further chain reaction of disaster.

ON THE TIMES — By ART STOTT

A Guy Who Finds Rainbows

THEY SAY a prophet is not without honor except in his own country, and I guess the same applies to anyone with particular talents.

If you remember, a couple of years back Victoria needed rain—needed it so badly the whole community joined in private and mystic efforts to produce precipitation. Car owners washed and polished their machines, sure that such energy was bound to bring results. It always rains right after you've polished a car. Housewives did their washing two and three times a week, certain that if they hung enough out to dry, the clouds would open up. Certain interests even imported a professional rain-maker, with a doodlebug contraption that was supposed to function in an esoteric way guaranteed to bring rain.

Stott

So the community continued in its drought.

That brings us back to the saying about the prophet in his own land.

Nobody thought of calling on Bruce Humber to work his particular magic. Bruce is a man of distinction. He was gaining local recognition as a runner when he left Victoria to go to high school in Seattle and later attend University of Washington. There he piled up athletic triumphs as a sprinter and returned home to make Canada's Olympic team for the 1936 games in Berlin.

After a hitch in the air force, he again came home to pass on to up-and-coming kids a certain amount of his running skill. There, too, he achieved some success, recognized by his appointment as track coach to the last Canadian Olympic team.

But his great talent lay buried, unrecognized.

RAIN-MAKER

Humber can make rain.

For him it's simple. All he has to do is arrange a top-notch meet for Victoria High's cinder track. Let him gather the cream of the Northwest's athletes for a show to please the whole community and what happens? Just what happened on Saturday night.

In the last four or five years, he has missed once. On that occasion it blew a hurricane.

It's got to the point where his hard-working assistant, ex-sprint star Harry Mitchell, turns out with a grin, a waterproof and a pair of rubber boots. One of the more polite members of the Humber team calls the coach and organizer "Chief." He hasn't the heart to complete the title "Rain-In-The-Face." The other boys just call him Sadie Thompson.

It seemed a little pointed Saturday when one of the "Y" boys presented to him a paperback book on forecasting weather. Bruce took it in his stride.

He does better than that. Give him rain, and he'll look for a rainbow. He found one as Saturday's steady rain lightened to a drizzle when heats started in the evening.

It was anything but track meet weather. The grass on the infield was wet. The cinders on the track were still unscuffed, but they looked as if the going was going to be heavy. The athletes, gathered from the Lower Mainland, the Island and Seattle, were moving about, not in customary warming-up exercises, but just to stimulate circulation.

A few stalwarts—people who'd turn out even if it were snowing—were spaced spottily in the stands.

Then, about 7, spectators began to drift in. They didn't crowd the seats, but they filled most of the main section by the finish line and began to spread out into the second set of tiers.

Humber, who'd been counting heads poker-faced, began to brighten.

MAKES IT WORTH TRYING

"Look at that. They're coming in. You know, there's something pretty wonderful about people in Victoria. They support you. Ken Wright tells me if it had been a night like this in Vancouver you wouldn't have had a dozen spectators. Makes it worth while trying, doesn't it?"

Maybe it does. The boys in spikes went on to provide one of the best shows staged in Victoria, running their hearts out and jumping in a way to break former records.

At the microphone, Archie McKinnon carried a running commentary that kept up enthusiasm, giving his boy Bruce the kind of backing that helps make this town important in the track and field picture.

The crowd responded. They brought the runners home with the vocal encouragement that would have done credit to twice their numbers. And even the canny ones who stayed out of the stands and looked through the chain-link fences got into the spirit of the thing. When Don Burgess took time out from running to pass the hat among them, he collected over $24.

Mr. Burgess, Jr., is persuasive. One of the knot-hole club claimed he had only a cent. "Good," replied Burgess. "We'll take it." And he did.

Given decent weather, track and field could be a big show here, the way Humber stages it with the help of Mitchell, McKinnon and a dozen others.

And if good weather and Humber don't reach speaking terms, the ex-Olympic sprinter and coach still has his distinction. Anyhow you figure it, he's the gardener's best friend.

Court-Martial Order For U.S. Soldier

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Fourth Army announced Monday that Cpl. Claude Batchelor, the youth who first stayed with the North Korean Reds and then changed his mind, will be court-martialled.

The 23-year-old Kermit, Tex., soldier has been in army custody almost five months while the army investigated whether there is enough evidence against him to support a court martial.

Lt.-Gen. I. D. White, commanding general of the Fourth Army, said Batchelor will be tried by a general court-martial on charges including:

1. That he consulted with the enemy concerning a subversive organization to be established in the United States after the Korean armistice.

2. That he made speeches and wrote articles in an attempt to persuade fellow prisoners in North Korea to believe the enemy propaganda and accept Communist doctrine.

3. That he wrote letters to promote disloyalty among the civilian population.

Gen. White said that although the charges normally could result in a death sentence he was directing that the case be tried as a non-capital case. The death sentence, therefore, could not result.

Exams Play Important Role, Inspector Says

In spite of students advancing from class to class by recommendation, examinations still play an important part in the Greater Victoria school system.

Reporting to the school board Monday night, John Gough, senior municipal inspector, said standardized tests administered from time to time are proving of assistance in achieving uniformity in evaluating pupil performance and are a major factor in determining which students should be advanced or retarded.

Evidence obtained from these tests, Mr. Gough said shows that a satisfactory standard is being achieved by the majority of children of the so-called "average group".

He defended the system of advancing slower-learning pupils. These retarded children, he said are stimulated to proceed at their own capacity and rate of learning, and to get from each school year as much as their mental, physical and emotional capacity will permit.

Such pupils, thus, could go through junior and senior high schools on a modified program in the form of a terminal course or one leading to high school graduation but precluding entrance to a university.

This was the only way, Mr. Gough said, by which the schools could prevent a feeling of frustration in the minds of those children who would be failed year after year and who would create problems associated with having over-age, over-grown and over-mature pupils mixing in classes with younger ones. It also met the ambitions of parents of "backward" children and avoided disturbing the labor-economic situation, which offers little, if any, place for children out of school in their early teens.

For the gifted children, the inspector said, teachers tried to provide an enriched course and to demand a higher standard of work.

He admitted, however, that with the large classes now in existence the advanced student did not receive the special attention he deserved and that this was a problem that would have to be met in the future.

VOICE OF BROADWAY — By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Ad Kramer Writes

(Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Her guest columnist today is one of New York's most interesting restaurateurs, Col. Ad Kramer of LaMer.)

NEW YORK — I was the official court jeweler to King Farouk of Egypt from the day he was crowned until 1942 when I left the country to take up residence with my family in New York. I personally have designed and sold millions of dollars worth of precious emeralds, diamonds, rubies and other gems to hundreds of important personalities in every part of the world, among them the Emperor and Empress of Ethiopia, Grand Duke Boris of Russia, Prince George of Denmark, the Agha Khan, Ali Khan, Porfirio Rubirosa, Doris Duke and the King and Queen of Denmark.

Dorothy

For more than three generations my family, the DeKramers, was influential in middle Europe.

King Farouk's coronation was one of the most unbelievable spectacles in the history of the land of the Nile, for the ceremonies, the singing, dancing and the merrymaking lasted more than a week and a half. As the official jeweler to the coronation, I knew and became very friendly with King Farouk, and liked him. He was a handsome, intelligent and courtly man and was not at all as he is pictured today. Farouk was almost six feet and weighed not more than 170. He was very fond of music, dramatics, dancing and was a good artist himself. He was never very athletic, yet he rode horseback quite well.

The entire Egyptian populace loved this handsome young ruler and hundreds of thousands flocked to his coronation.

I have attended many important social functions in Europe during my 40 years of residence in Cairo, yet none ever equaled the splendor of the wedding and reception of King Farouk and Queen Farida in 1938.

The king's palace at Abdin, in Cairo, is perhaps 10 times as large as the White House in Washington. He has 200 rooms, many of them large enough to hold a thousand people at one time. The palace has at least 100 bathrooms, all gaily decorated, and all marble, and no two bathrooms are of the same color or design.

★ ★ ★

The marriage of King Farouk to Farida was attended by virtually every important title in Europe. Her Majesty the Queen was not allowed to be present at the reception, but she and her ladies-in-waiting could see the guests from a huge balcony that was specially designed for the occasion. A huge crystal chandelier spotlighted the ballroom where the reception took place, and there were hundreds of gaily decorated spotlights that flashed intermittently on the bejeweled guests. The hundreds of magnificently-dressed women, the handsome, formally attired men, many of them wearing the uniforms of their country, was a colorful and dazzling spectacle.

The ballroom, at least 700 feet long, at one end houses King Farouk's special project, a garden of exotic flowers, all enclosed in a glass dome.

★ ★ ★

A wide marble staircase, leading from the entrance hall to the second-floor ballroom, was covered with a red velvet carpet that was literally knee-deep in flowers. Stationed on each step on the way to the ballroom were men from a regiment of the finest soldiers in Egypt. They were all 6 feet 6, and wore the uniform of the King's men, royal blue and gold trimmed with pure gold. Their drawn, bejeweled, swords formed a wedding arch leading to the ballroom.

The array of foods and wines served at the King's reception were prepared by the best chefs in the world. In one of the salons, the food was served on solid-gold plates and the champagne in solid-gold goblets.

★ ★ ★

I created the crown for Farida. It was studded with diamonds and emeralds and its design was an allegory of ancient and modern Egypt. It cost well over $1,000,000. Farida was one of the most beautiful women of Egypt, but the most beautiful woman that I have ever seen was Farouk's younger sister, Princess Fawzia. Fawzia later married the Shah of Persia but after a time left him.

I closed up my jewelry and diamond organization in 1940 during the Hitler reign and left Egypt with my wife and twin daughters.

Opening Tenders On Seaway Soon

TORONTO (BUP)—Tenders for the first construction jobs on the St. Lawrence Seaway power development probably will be called next week, hydro chairman Robert Saunders said Monday.

Saunders went to Ottawa today to discuss details of the $600,000,000 development to be shared with the New York State Power Authority. The first tenders were expected to be on work that does not require international approval, such as bids on construction camps.

Mr. Wright travelled light

WHEN THE Wright Brothers first took off at Kitty Hawk fifty years ago, weight-saving aluminum was already in on the act. Their tiny engine had a single cast aluminum crank-case and cylinder block. Aluminum has been growing with the aircraft industry ever since. Now strong aluminum alloys are helping to combat the heats and stresses of supersonic flight, and Alcan is busier than ever supplying aluminum for Canada's busy aircraft plants and other metals users looking for lightness and strength . . . at a fraction of the price that the Wright Brothers paid. Double Death Accidental, Jury Verdict

Witnesses Tell of Fatal Car Accident

DUNCAN — Only survivor of a car accident June 5 that took the lives of two men when their vehicle hurtled over a 30-foot embankment failed to throw any light on the double tragedy.

"The car seemed to lurch and hit some gravel," said John Robson, 26, of Koksilah. "That was all I remembered until I came to in hospital."

Testifying Monday afternoon at the inquest into the death of the two accident victims, lifelong friends Dean Johnston, 26, and Donald Hopton, 27, of Duncan, Robson said Johnston was driving, and Hopton was between himself and the driver in the front seat of the car.

He said the three had drunk beer at the Canadian Legion and Green Lantern in Chemainus, and were driving south when the accident occurred at the crossing with the old Island Highway, six miles north of here. He estimated the car's speed at 50 miles per hour.

An eye-witness, Miss Josephine Hazel Kennedy, Vancouver teleprinter, said the car was going "too fast," possibly 75 miles per hour. Others, Robert Lyle Hitchson, Nanoose, and Miss June Hodgson, Duncan, stated the car was traveling over the speed limit.

Death in both cases was due to a broken neck and fractured skull, said Dr. J. U. Coleman.

Const. M. G. Low, RCMP, said that on his arrival at the scene he found Johnston dead with his head and shoulders out of the left door. Robson was in the back seat, he said.

Jury returned a verdict of accidental death, but attached a rider that guard rails be installed at both sides of the north approach to the bridge.

Supreme Court Hears Hunting Accident Case

Duncan Dentist Named in Suit

NANAIMO — Case of Fred Olson of Cowichan Lake against Dr. W. R. Murchie, Duncan dentist, continued in Supreme Court here Monday before Justice J. M. Coady.

Olson is claiming damages for loss of an eye in a hunting accident Sept. 13 in the Cowichan Lake district.

B.C. land surveyor, Leonard White, Duncan, took the witness stand in the morning to give professional evidence on the lay of the land in the accident area. Claim that the hunters were unseen by one another is sought to be supported.

Murray Smith, boom foreman for B.C. Forest Products at Port Renfrew, gave evidence of seeing Olson and Dr. Murchie after the accident, at which time he said both had agreed that the injury was purely an accident, "and could have happened to anyone."

Dr. Edward Murchie, Vancouver, son of the defendant, took the stand, while Olson retired to permit the younger Murchie to return to Vancouver to write a dental examination. Case is expected to continue most of today.

Chemainus Counters 'Snubs' From Tourists, Motorists

CHEMAINUS—Motorists and tourists, in particular, have "snubbed" this community ever since the new Island Highway was opened.

This oversight, brought on by the fact that the new modern highway by-passes Chemainus altogether, will be rectified, it is hoped, in future.

A huge, white welcome arch has been erected on the new highway at the Henry Road intersection, that invites tourists and motorists to pass through Chemainus. Bidding a hearty "Welcome to Chemainus", the arch also invites the traveler to stop and attend a lodge, club or Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Idea for the welcome arch was originated two years ago by the Knights of Pythias. A committee was formed with Helge Staffanson, representing the Kinsmen Club and the Knights of Pythias, acting as chairman. Others on the committee were C. Sherlock, C. Taylor, F. Dyer, Al Biggs, and Bert Beggs.

JOB FOR CARPENTER

After working out a suitable design, the project was turned over to carpenter Paul Erickson who constructed the arch and name plates. Painting and lettering was done by a Duncan firm.

The arch is 16 feet high and 12 feet wide. Across the top, in large letters, are the words: "Welcome to Chemainus." Individual organization name plates, measuring 10 by 42 inches, are lettered in color on both sides and include the crest or shield of the particular organization together with its meeting place and date.

Cost of erecting the arch was shared by the six organizations whose plaques hang from its centre. They are: May Temple No. 34, Pythian Sisters; Knights of Pythias; Canadian Legion, BESL, No. 191; Chemainus Rotary Club; Chemainus and district Chamber of Commerce, and the Kinsmen Club.

Towboat Aground On Nanaimo Reef

NANAIMO (CP) — The tug Endorina of Vancouver ran aground on Monday on rocks off Satellite Reef, just outside Nanaimo harbor.

The crew and the boat were reported to be in no danger.

The Endorina was to be refloated at the next high tide and drydocked for inspection. She was forced on the rocks when a log boom tow became hung up and rendered the vessel unmanageable.

B.C. Exports Keep Growing

Chetwynd Reviews Trading Position

Trade Minister Ralph Chetwynd revealed today that B.C. exports held strong during 1953 despite prices decreases, with an overall export total of $675,307,000 compared with 1952's total of $677,853,000.

Wood products and paper, totalling $236,000,000, again held a predominant position in the province's export picture during the 12-month period, and they were matched by wheat and four of prairie origin passing through B.C. ports.

Imports showed an increase from $342,000,000 to $361,000,000. Leading items were petroleum products, coffee, and tourist purchases. They were followed by pipe, automobiles, raw sugar, logging machinery, and foreign ores for smelting.

Other leading imports during 1953 were bananas, oranges, and tractor parts, all of which exceeded $2,000,000.

METALS DOWN

A depressed metal market, according to the minister, is primarily responsible for a $10,000,000 drop in the import of foreign ores for smelting, and for a slight reduction in exports of non-ferrous metals and products through B.C. ports.

Foreign ore imports dropped from $16,000,000, to $6,000,000.

Trade with the U.S. showed a healthy increase in both imports and exports over 1952. Direct imports from the United Kingdom are also up, but direct exports are down badly, from $193,000,000 in 1952, to $128,000,000 in 1953.

NON-STERLING TRADE

Other countries with which B.C. has trade showed a reversal of the U.K. trade picture. Imports from these countries are down from $85,000,000 to $66,000,000, while exports jumped from $286,000,000 to $293,000,000.

Mr. Chetwynd said that since 1939, B.C.'s export movement has increased from $141,000,000 to $675,000,000 while imports climbed from $62,000,000 to $360,000,000.

"After allowing for price changes, these figures still indicate considerable growth in B.C.'s external trade," he said.

C. D. Howe 'Uninformed' On Gas Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said today he knows nothing of a decision by Westcoast Transmission Company to appeal a decision of the United States federal power commission barring Canadian natural gas from the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

The FPC on Friday authorized Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation to supply the area from the U.S. southwest. It turned down applications from two other companies seeking to market gas in that territory from the Peace River area of Alberta and British Columbia.

Westcoast Transmission Company, one of the firms seeking to bring down Canadian gas, announced in Vancouver Monday it plans an appeal to the courts from the FPC judgment.

Today Mr. Howe told Davie Fulton (PC, Kamloops) in the Commons he understands FPC decisions can be appealed to the courts but he does not know on what grounds an appeal could be taken in this case.

Reeve Disputes Holmes' Figures

School costs of Central Junior High School and Lansdowne Junior High School were compared by R. H. Reeve, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the Greater Victoria School Board, in a report at the School Board meeting Monday.

Last week, an interim report on comparative costs of the schools, presented Chamber of Commerce directors by Major H. Cuthbert Holmes, reported that Central Junior, a concrete building, cost only 8 per cent more than the frame building of Lansdowne School.

Mr. Reeve said last night the actual cost difference was 18.5 per cent.

He also noted that the instructional area in Central Junior School was 57 per cent of total space, not 25 per cent as reported to the chamber.

Major Holmes said today his committee would study Mr. Reeve's figures as part of the chamber plan to thoroughly investigate the general pattern of school costs.

Contract sum for the Central Junior school was $914,774 and for Lansdowne $579,042.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

As someone once said: there's always a sure way to do this.

Just sit down and stare at the typewriter long enough and something's bound to happen.

And happen it did.

John Landy, the Australian for whom so many excuses were made in the past, goes out and busts Roger Bannister's fabled 3.59.4-mile into little pieces of history.

Halberg

And Landy, who was often close in the past as he dueled with Bannister and Wes Santee of the United States for the coveted honor of being the first to crash the four-minute barrier, runs a fabulous 3.58.

And what a tremendous boost for the British Empire Games in Vancouver. The two crack milers of all time in the field of entries. The tub-thumper's dream has really come true.

This could be the race of the century. And oddly enough, it's possible that yet another name will come to the fore before the official time is announced in Empire Stadium, August 7.

Forced into the background because of the amazing feats of Landy and Bannister is Murray Halberg of New Zealand. He's only three seconds off the four-minute mark at present. And he could be the overlay in the field at Vancouver.

The little fellow can scoot and maybe all he needs if Chris Chataway to pace him home. And therein is another amazing chapter to the two record-breaking performances of Bannister and Landy in the last two months.

Chataway paced Bannister when the four-minute mile was first cracked and Monday at Finland he duplicated the performance for Landy. Never a bride in the mile is Chris, but oh what a bridesmaid? And at that Chataway ran a 4.04-mile.

Yet Another Great Competitor

Which brings to mind that another great runner was in town last week.

Bill Dale, who ran for Canada in the British Empire Games in 1938, and took his schooling in the city, was here on a convention.

It wasn't so long ago that Bill was making the news that Terry Tobacco and Joe Haegart will be making before long.

He was the best in the Dominion in his half-mile specialty. In 1939 he ran the second fastest half-mile in the world, a sparkling 1.51.5. That mark was beaten only by John Woodruff, the 1936 Olympic champion. Bill was third in the U.S. Nationals, too, and one of the fellows who beat him was Woodruff.

Bill's still with his track love. He brought a young chap down here a couple of years ago for the inter-high meet and the youngster ran away with the marbles.

A Championship for the Asking

And orchids too to the "Y" track club for Saturady's meet at Vic High Stadium. It's a pity the weather again turned sour on coach Bruce Humber, for it was a wonderful show..

But there's still a sour note in the air. And it concerns the old bugbear—money.

Humber would dearly love to send his outstanding protege, Joe Haegart, to the Canadian midget championships in Windsor. Joe Saturday broke the Canadian midget mark in the 440.

A Canadian championship is virtually his for the asking.

The question is: is there an angel who can give the youngster the answer?

BUTTERFINGERS—Such were the thoughts of onlookers at the prize presentation in a Manila diving contest when the judge dropped one of the winners medals. Antonio de las Alas, who was making the presentation, and India's K. P. Thakkar, who won the prize, got down on hands and knees to search for the bauble, to the amusement of Joab Raanan, left, of Israel, and Japan's Katsuichi Monri. (NEA.)

LOPEZ SILENCES CRITICS

Tribe Facing Crucial Test

While the New York Yankees stagger and flounder five games off the pace, the Cleveland Indians confidently awaited an invasion by the Philadelphia A's tonight. In fact, they weren't even thinking much of the A's. The week-end series with the Yanks occupied their thoughts.

Casey Stengel's New Yorkers also were thinking of the Cleveland series, but they were far from confident.

This is the year the Indians' Al Lopez has been waiting for. No one in Cleveland thinks the club will fold as it has an annoying habit of doing in the late stages. Silenced are the critics who have been howling for Lopez' scalp because he insisted on using Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia both as starters and relievers.

Now, when the stretch run comes Lopez will have a couple of good relievers to send in when the going gets hot. Both Don Mossi and Ray Narleski have filled a big void in the bullpen.

As for the Yankees, Stengel is saving his aces, Allie Reynolds, Whitey Ford and Ed Lopat, for the Indians, but he doesn't even know who is going to take the hill today against the Detroit Tigers, ordinarily a club against whom the Yanks fatten their averages.

If the Yanks can get past the Tigers, the coming series with the Indians will be their most important since they swept that two-game set from the Boston Red Sox on the final days of the '49 season.

In the National League, the New York Giants pulled a game ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers with an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, in the only major league game scheduled Monday. Willie Mays hit two home runs, but the Giants still required the services of three pitchers—Jim Hearn, Windy McCall and Marv Grissom—to dump the Birds.

Brawl Marks Salem Win Over Chiefs

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—A fourth-inning fight in which almost every player took part livened things up as Salem defeated Wenatchee 5-1 in Monday night's Western International League baseball game here.

Johnny Perez, Salem's leading batter in the game, punched Wenatchee pitcher Ted Shandor to touch off the fight. It quickly developed into a free-for-all but no one was hurt and no one was put out of the game. Perez explained later he thought one of Shandor's pitches was aimed at his head.

Wenatchee's lone run came in the first inning on a hit batter, a single by Tony Rivas and an infield out by Lloyd Jenney.

Perez had a two-run homer in the first and his single in the seventh was one of five that accounted for three runs.

Mrs. Livingstone Tops Medal Round

Mrs. E. H. Livingstone carded a 91-15—76 to sweep the low net championship in the medal round for women with handicaps of 15 and under at Uplands Golf Club Monday.

Mrs. H. Husband and Mrs. J. F. Dawson tied for second low net, with 87-10—77 and 92-15—77 respectively.

Low gross honors were split between Mrs. H. G. Mearns and Mrs. H. McIntyre, both with 85's.

Ladder Derby Standings

Lance Littlewood is officially the top angler for the third week of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association ladder derby and he has $15 to prove the point.

Littlewood, who weighed in a 27¾-pound fish last week, held down the top rung on the third qualifying ladder and took first prize in the weekly money.

Other money winners were D. R. Alexander, Ian May, Jim Vowles, E. Norton and Jim Lee. Norton won the hidden weight prize while Lee took fourth money with his 15-pound, nine-ouncer. However, as he qualified on an earlier ladder, Lee's name was not included in the official ladder list.

Tyees Lose Home Games As Stamps, Indians Quit

Bannister Praises Landy

LONDON (Reuters) — Roger Bannister sent his "warmest congratulations" to John Landy Monday after learning that the Australian had trimmed more than a second off his own "miracle mile" time.

The London medical student said: "It is a wonderful achievement and I send him my heartiest congratulations. He has tried very hard and I am very glad he has now succeeded. He deserves the success very much."

Asked if he would try to regain his laurels from Landy, Bannister replied: "I don't know. My next race is in Vancouver."

Both runners are entered for the British Empire Games at Vancouver this summer.

Jack Crump, secretary of the British Amateur Athletic Board, called Landy's feat "fantastic."

Sydney Wooderson, the last British runner before Bannister to hold the world mile record, thought there will be a three-minute 50-second mile some day.

"But surely not for a long time yet," Wooderson said. "Landy's performance is just incredible. He had been so near so many times that I was beginning to think he couldn't do it."

Landy ran the mile in a phenomenal three minutes and 58 seconds Monday, clipping 1.4 seconds off Bannister's world record of 3.59.4 and becoming the second man to crash the four-minute barrier.

NINTH VICTORY

Indians Squeeze by Native Sons

VANCOUVER (CP) — PNE Indians forged a 10-8 Inter-City Lacrosse League victory over Nanaimo Native Sons on Monday night at the Forum.

Performing in spurts, coach Jake Proctor's tribe, just about ready to junk their methodical brand of play, registered their ninth win of the season against five losses to move two games ahead of third-place Vancouver Pilseners and Nanaimo.

Indians meet another stiff test tonight when they encounter Pilseners at Kerrisdale Arena.

Schedule Change Necessary As WIL Cut to Eight Teams

Victoria Tyees are the unwilling victims of the withdrawal of Calgary and Spokane from the Western International Baseball League.

Following the almost simultaneous loss of the Spokane and Calgary franchises Monday, announced by WIL president Robert Abel, the Tyees have been scheduled out of this week's home stand.

Originally scheduled to play the Spokane Indans here on Thursday and then, following talks with Abel Monday, to play the Wenatchee Chiefs here instead, the Tyees will now remain on the road until next Monday.

Tyee general manager Reg Patterson says he will appeal the schedule change as he had been informed by Abel, Monday, that the Chiefs would play here this week.

Last week the Tyees were forced to play the series originally scheduled here against the Vancouver Capilanos in Vancouver because of the civic outside workers' strike in the city.

Patterson was to meet local union officials today in regard to using Athletic Park.

Under the new schedule as announced today, the Tyees play at Wenatchee starting Thursday, returning home against Lewiston Broncs Monday and meeting Wenatchee Chiefs on July 1-3.

Monday's withdrawal of the Calgary and Spokane franchises cut the 10-team WIL to eight teams.

Spokane Plea Falls on Deaf Ears

The announcement by Abel at WIL headquarters that the Spokane franchise had been canceled and the Calgary team disbanded evoked little surprise.

Both teams were floundering in a sea of red ink caused by apathy of the fans, cold and rainy weather and in Spokane the counter-attraction of television.

At the time the Spokane civic committee "Save Spokane Indians, Inc." threw in the towel on a fund-raising drive the team was en route from Edmonton to Vancouver, B.C., and due some time Tuesday.

The committee gave up in its campaign for $40,000 to insure continued operation of the club after less than $3,000 was pledged during the week of solicitation. The league had taken over the Spokane franchise a week earlier when owner Roy Hotchkiss said he could not continue a losing operation.

Edmonton Determined to Carry On

Calgary's president Bus Lacey told his players the same story Monday, and split up the club's bank account of $810 among the 18-man squad. A $3,150 deposit with the minor league president, George Trautman, also will go toward player salaries.

"I've poured a lot of money into this thing," said Lacey in a meeting with the players Monday, "and I just can't go on. The other directors feel the same way so there's nothing to do but call it quits. I am sorry for the inconvenience it causes you fellows but there has to be a halt to this thing somewhere."

Unofficial estimates have it that Stampeder officials lost close to $60,000 in the two years of operation.

Immediately the decision was made to disband, all the players, with the exception of Dennis Luby and Charlie Lundgren were given their unconditional releases. Luby is property of the Reading, Pa., team and Lundgren of Sacramento of the California League.

Reaction of other owners was a mixture of relief and determination. Most seemed glad the indecision over the two ailing ex-members was over, and confident the league could finish out the season intact.

The loss of Calgary left the Edmonton Eskimos at the "end of the line" in Alberta, nearly 800 miles from the nearest other WIL club, but manager John Ducey said "it won't affect us a bit."

Ducey described the Eskimos as "in a very solid position," and said other teams would continue to get a $600 guarantee to help meet travel costs on the long road trips to the Canadian prairie. This is the only exception made to the league's rule of the home team keeping all gate receipts.

Indians May Be Revived in '55

Spokane's departure from organized baseball came just a half dozen or so years after the Inland Empire city set a minor league attendance record.

Civic interests there say they will do the spade work this year to insure the re-entry of Spokane into the WIL next season.

Several other teams, notably Lewiston and Salem, have been hard-pressed financially this season, but improving weather and promises of community support have helped them over the hump.

So serious was the overall problem of poor attendance and anemia at the boxoffice that directors met about 10 days ago in Spokane to decide whether the entire league would have to disband. The decision was to continue, with the hope Spokane and Calgary would revive.

They didn't.

Complete schedule change follows:

Schedule change:

June 22-24—Vancouver at Yakima, Tri-City at Salem, Victoria at Lewiston, Edmonton at Wenatchee.

June 25-26—Victoria at Wenatchee, Vancouver at Lewiston, Edmonton at Yakima, Salem at Tri-City (doubleheader Saturday).

June 27—Vancouver at Lewiston (2), Edmonton at Yakima (2), Victoria at Wenatchee (2), Salem at Tri-City.

June 28-30—Tri-City at Edmonton, Salem at Vancouver, Lewiston at Victoria, Yakima at Wenatchee.

July 1-3—Tri-City at Edmonton, Lewiston at Salem, Yakima at Vancouver (doubleheaders Thursday and Saturday), Wenatchee at Victoria (doubleheaders Thursday and Saturday).

July 4-5 (doubleheaders both days)—Edmonton at Lewiston, Vancouver at Salem, Victoria at Tri-City, Wenatchee at Yakima.

MARTIN STARS

Tyees Bow To Broncs, Hit Cellar

Lewiston 6, Victoria 5

Victoria Tyees today should be issuing an appeal for the arrest of Lewiston pitcher Jack Martin. The charge—strangulation.

Martin positively throttled the Tyees Monday night in Lewiston with a spectacular relief job as the Broncs nipped the slumping Tyees, 6-5. With the withdrawal of Calgary and Spokane, Tyees are now in the league basement.

Called in to bail out starter Al Yaylian in the fourth inning at a time when the Tyees were cooking something up, Martin not only put the fire out but dashed water on the Tyees for the rest of the game.

After coming in, Martin retired 13 men in a row before Victoria got to him for two runs in the top of the ninth. Facing 15 batters, Martin gave up only one hit, a long double by Ron Jackson, struck out four and walked three.

Tyees struck for two runs in the first inning, both riding home on Neil Sheridan's double, and added another off Yaylian in the fourth. The last run brought in Martin.

Martin temporarily lost his control in the ninth, walking two men, and Jackson rapped a tremendous 400-foot double to score them both. However, Jackson was cut down at third on a perfect throw from centrefielder Al Heist.

Newcomer Mel Stein played his first game at first base for the Tyees and scored one of the ninth inning runs.

PRIOR LOSER

Tyees used three pitchers in the game, Phil Page starting, being followed by Bill Prior, who took the loss, and in turn gave way to Mike Kanshin.

Jackson was the only Victoria hitter to do anything commendable. He rapped out two hits, batted in three runs and scored one.

Nanaimo Nips Bays To Share Boxla Lead

Nanaimo 8, Foul Bay 7; Jokers 7, Navy 5

Nanaimo of the Senior B Lacrosse League, finally came to the smooth part of a long road Monday night.

Capping their terrific spurt of recent games, Nanaimo edged Foul Bay, 8-7 at Memorial Arena, to gain a tie with Bays for first place

In the other game of a twin bill, Jokers kept a firm grip on third place by scoring a close 7-5 win over a spirited Navy squad.

Nanaimo constructed a 5-4 half-time lead and had pumped the lead to 8-4 in the early minutes of the fourth quarter.

However, Foul Bay broke loose for three unanswered goals in the last minutes of the game to provide a torrid finish. Only stout goal-tending by Nanaimo's starry Alf Shuker held Bays down.

Terry Rodway of Nanaimo, and Elmer Mathews were the individual stars of the game, scoring three goals each.

Roy Lawrence and Bob Seens were the Joker standouts, scoring three and two goals respectively while Rod Bolt sniped a pair for the sailors.

Larsen's Article Ignites U.S.-Aussie Net Feud Again

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—That prize pixie of the tennis courts, Art Larsen, has taken pen in hand and stirred up our Australian friends to the point where anything might happen and probably will. Official protests promise to be the least of it. Tempers are becoming ragged.

Larsen, playing in the Wimbledon championships starting today, wrote for a recent issue of "World Tennis" an article which he meant to be humorous entitled "I Played Australia." Judging by the contents of a cable we have received, the Australians do not think Larsen is funny.

The Victoria Lawn Tennis Association at Melbourne has protested that Art's literary flight of fancy has "damaged Australian prestige." The president of that body, Harry Pitt, has complained to the U.S. Association that the former national champion's charges are "entirely incorrect" and "fantastic." As it happens, Pitt's right on both counts.

Referring to Larsen's tour of Australia a few years ago—a tour which the Aussies swore at the time would never be repeated—Pitt has this to say:

"Larsen was treated with every consideration and efforts were made to soothe him. Throughout the tour the authorities had been too lenient with Larsen and the crowd was very irritated with his behavior. The criticism was mild and much less than he deserved."

One is likely to wonder what in the world our tennis hero could have written to bring down such honest wrath. It's dynamite if we ever saw the explosive. Examples:

"On the day of the finals Larsen writes there was a 70-mile an hour wind. When I stepped on the court to begin, a huge box came flying through the air and knocked me down. I had to hit every ball twice because the wind kept throwing the ball back at me."

One can readily see, we feel, why the Aussies do not think Larsen is funny. Why they are sore is not quite so clear. Again he recalls a high spot of the tour, of which he apparently had many:

"Then something happened—I don't remember what—and they began to boo me for no reason. They did it so brutally and consistently that I finally blew my cork. I picked up my rackets and stalked off the court amidst a shower of beer bottles and a metropolitan opera chorus of boos."

From the information we have, the Aussies are particularly upset over this passage, and with some reason. Our own suspicion is that Art is exaggerating. Australian beer comes in quart bottles, which are unwieldy for throwing purposes, and are not sold at tennis matches.

'Little Mo' Leads U.S. Tennis Advance

WIMBLEDON, England (UP)—Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly began her bid for a third straight Wimbledon women's singles title today by gaining the third round with a 35-minute, 6-0, 6-3 victory over Joan Scott of South Africa.

Doris Hart, the slim Florida star who lost to Miss Connolly in last year's final, also reached the third round with a 6-1, 6-1 triumph over Georgie Woodgate of Britain.

Margaret Osborne Dupont, the 1947 champion, entered the second round by defeating Valerie White of Britain, 6-1, 6-0.

Louise Brough, a three-time Wimbledon champion, defeated Mrs. Patricia Gotla of Britain, 6-1, 6-1.

Mary Kay Morris of Pasadena, Calif., was the first American woman eliminated. She lost to Pat Harrison of Britain, 6-2, 6-2, in a first round match.

Baba Madden Lewis of Newtonville, Mass., became the fifth American woman to advance, eliminating Betty Quelch of Britain, 6-1, 6-3, in a first round test.

The men's doubles play also began and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia coasted into the second round with a 6-0, 6-2, 6-2 victory over Cyril Kemp of Ireland and Farhand Mohtadi of Iran.

Little to Choose From In Minor Boxla Action

Things were close in the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association Monday.

In the Juvenile B League, Dick Austin's big three-goal splurge enabled City Big Horns to overcome a 3-0 deficit and defeat Saanich Strathcona Cafe, 5-4. Saanich led 3-0 entering the last quarter but Austin's hat trick and single goals by Stu Smith and Bob McKee changed the picture.

It was just as close in the Diaper League as Blue Bombers increased their league lead with a tight 5-4 win over Tigers and Young Shamrocks, with Dick Everton scoring three times, nipped Cougars, 4-3.

It has been announced that Stubbys will meet Shamrocks Wednesday night at Memorial Arena in the preliminary to the Intercity Lacrosse League game.

Scorers and line-ups for Wednesday night's game follow:

LONGACRES

On The

OUTDOOR FRONT

With DENNY BOYD

The Big Day is getting closer and if you haven't got your Solarium Derby ticket yet it's only because Wil Wilson has been walking on air recently, celebrating the arrival of a new daughter to the Wilson household. But never fear, Wil will catch you.

Yes folks, it's people like Wil who, every year, make the Solarium Derby the smashing success it always is. And we of The Times are grateful indeed to be able to help the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association sponsor the big one-day show.

Wil Wilson

Wil, a past-president of the Anglers' Association is typical of the guys who do all the work in the mammoth event. As in the case of most associations or clubs, most of the work falls upon the shoulders of a willing few, who year after year, put in a staggering total of man hours. Their only reward is that they are around to see that big cheque passed on to officials of the Solarium.

But getting back to Wil, who typifies the spirit and unselfish devotion to a big task that prevails among the committee members.

Wil is the manager of a large financial corporation, a task that, in itself, could keep him busy enough. But, to keep out of a rut, Wil is also an executive member of the Victoria Shamrock lacrosse team and an unofficial press booster for the team.

Wil likes to get out fishing but he has been finding his spare time steadily decreasing and now, with the birth of Katherine Louise, most of his spare time will be devoted to baby-sitting.

Well, so far we've covered the greater part of Wil's day but added to this, he has taken on the back-bending task of ticket chairman. And brother, that's a job.

Wil funnels the books of tickets out to the many salesmen and then keeps track of every penny that comes in. He badgers the salesmen for more hustle, always has his pockets bulging with books of tickets and tells everyone in sight that sales are miles behind last year.

That's what we mean when we say that Wil will probably catch you for a ticket before Derby Day, July 25. But we also feel that if you are any kind of a sportsman, it won't take much talking to sell you a ticket.

SLACK LINE—We hear that Rhys Davis is about to market a new and smaller version of his justly famous Strip Teaser lure. Preliminary tests of the modified version have indicated it will be the real thing for spinning as it casts well and it is said to have a terrific action behind a dodger. . . . One local sporting goods store has a new line of Swedish spinning lures, spoons and wobblers in stock. Of excellent design and construction, these bear investigation. One feature we particularly liked about them is that a small emery board is enclosed with each lure to keep those hooks sharp.

Fred Barnes, who was there, says that the fish that finally got Ted Reynolds on the ladder, was one of the most miserable and bedraggled specimens the sea ever threw up. The wretched fish, Fred confides, was skinny, dyspeptic and had a huge gash on one side where a seal had bitten it. If it had been any worse off, we wouldn't even feel jealous. Mill Bay produced some worthwhile fishing for Sunday anglers who braved the sweeping wind in Saanich Inlet.

B.C. Sportsman Jack Pattison Dies Suddenly

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack W. Pattison, 72, widely known sportsman and race-horse owner, died suddenly here Monday.

Mr. Pattison was being driven by a friend from the Pacific Athletic Club here which he owned, to his North Vancouver home when he collapsed from an heart attack.

Born in Oxford, England, he came to Vancouver when he was 22. He operated the Central and Burrard Clubs before opening the P-A in the 1930s.

As a racing enthusiast he developed high-class horses for Vancouver and other Canadian tracks from stock imported from Ireland.

Mr. Pattison recently had been assisting in preparations for the British Empire Games.

Interested in many community projects and charities, he once spearheaded a drive which raised $100,000 for a prisoner-of-war rehabilitation plan.

Surviving him are his widow, Kay; one daughter, Nancy, and his son, Bill, a recent graduate from Cornell University. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

SHUTOUTS COME EASY TO GARY

Gary Lawrence. File that name for the future.

Young Lawrence, one of the brightest minor baseball prospects in Victoria, Monday night pitched his second consecutive one-hit shutout and his third shutout of the season as Vic Van Storage blanked Bernie Nicholls, 8-0 in bantam baseball action.

Showing pin-point control, Lawrence walked only one batter and struck out seven.

Dave Emery led the winners at the plate with a single and double.

Three-Way Traffic Jam For City Softball Lead

Fletchers 13, United Services 1

First place in the Senior A Men's Softball League is getting a little crowded.

Monday night at Central Park, Cec Fletchers came back after their defeat of Sunday afternoon to wallop United Services 13-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Ab Wiebe, and move into a three-way tie for the top spot with Arrow Furniture and Chinese Students.

Services are still within hailing distance—a scant two points off the lead.

Thanks to the weather co-operation, a big ladies' night crowd turned up, but they did not have much to holler about after Fletchers had built up a huge 10-0 lead in three innings.

Starter Norm Haskell of United Services was hit hard in the second inning and Fletchers scored six times on four base knocks. In the third inning, another four hits, including a two-run homer by Wiebe, was enough for four runs.

Wiebe lost his shutout in the last of the ninth when Doug Boettcher led off with a hit, advanced to second on a passed ball, and moved around to score on two infield outs.

TIE-BREAKER

The outcome of tonight's game will put either Chinese Students or Arrow Furniture in sole possession of first place when they meet in Central Park.

Game time is 6.45.

Easy Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Italo Scortichini waded in and hit sleepy-eyed Pedro Gonzales almost at will Monday night to win a split decision over the Rankin, Pa., boxer in a 10-round match at St. Nicholas Arena.

Scortichini weighed 154, Gonzales 158¼ pounds.

RON HAS BUSY DAY COUNTING GOLF ACES

Golfer Ron Simmons certainly knows the thrill of a hole-in-one—even if he hasn't got one yet.

Simmons accompanied two divoters around the Cedar Hill Golf Course on separate occasions Sunday, and both performed the feat.

Harold Bailey aced his tee shot on the 120-yard, par-three ninth hole using a nine iron in the morning. W. Gemmell scored his hole-in-one in the afternoon on the 130-yard, par-three eighth hole. He also used a nine iron.

RUSS-U.S. AT ODDS

Word-Battle Evolves In Chess Tournament

NEW YORK (AP)—The Russian-American chess tournament, hailed as promoting cultural understanding between the two countries, erupted early today into a heated and wordy argument over time clocks.

Two protests were lodged, one by a Russian player and one by the leading American. Referee Hans Kmoch, an American, overruled the Russian, but argument on the other protest went into the early hours of the morning. A final decision was left until later today.

The Russians, meanwhile, pulled into a commanding 13-6-point lead midway through the third round of the tournament, which had been completely decorous and polite in the six days up to this point. They need just 3½ points more to clinch the 32-game tournament.

The American protest was lodged by Samuel Reshevsky when it was discovered that a faulty time clock apparently gave his opponent, No. 1 Russian player Vassily Smyslov, 35 extra minutes. The game still is not completed.

Reshevsky, as the evening session neared its end, had to move feverishly to get in his required 40 moves. The Russian, because of the out-of-kilter clock, was not pressed for time at all.

In the other protest, Russian Yuri Auerbach forfeited his game to Donald Byrne because he made only 39 moves when the time ran out. He said he hadn't understood that his 40 moves had to be completed before a small flag on the face of the clock dropped down.

Kmoch overruled him on the basis that the flag signal was plainly described in the written ground rules.

The American chess authorities and Russian players and officials carried their argument over the Reshevsky dispute upstairs to the Russian suite in the Hotel Roosevelt, where the tournament is being held.

Hungarian Star Lost to Team

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Ferenc Puskas, Hungary's star player in the world soccer championship, looked sadly at his bandaged foot Monday and said: "I think they can count me out from now on."

Hungary, favorite for the world title, meets Brazil Sunday in a quarter-final match that may well decide the championship.

a day in your life as a Naval Aviator

It may begin with a dawn patrol. Or a spell of duty as Officer of the Watch. The Navy's Officer Pilots and Observers get the best of both worlds. They combine the thrills of flying with those of the sea. Their lives are full, exciting, absorbing.

These are hand-picked men — men who have proved their ability during intensive training. They do a vital job. They command their own planes on convoy protection and anti-submarine patrol. They give fighter cover for the ships. On them may depend the whole course of a vital action.

Each day is full for these men of Naval Aviation—full of adventure, full of excitement. Their day can be your day. Their career yours.

FLYING TRAINING — The Navy's Aviators get complete flying training at land bases before they spread their wings at sea.

OFFICER OF THE WATCH — On the bridge, the Naval Aviator is thoroughly trained in seamanship as well as airmanship. This Naval Pilot takes a bearing.

PRE-FLIGHT CONFAB — The Pilot-Observer teams of the RCN check details before a flight. Teamwork is a keyword in the Navy.

TOUCHDOWN — Judged to a hairsbreadth at 90 knots, the Naval Pilot cuts his engine for a perfect landing on the carrier's deck.

SMOOTH SAILING — Wings folded in repose, the Avenger and Sea Fury aircraft nestle on deck while the men who fly them enjoy a well-earned rest under tropic skies.

HE SHOOTS—HE SCORES — The Navy emphasizes physical fitness. The flight deck of an aircraft carrier makes an ideal playing field in mid-Atlantic.

GRAND SLAM — Dinner and a rubber of bridge in the Wardroom for Naval Aviators tonight. Tomorrow, a Fleet Exercise begins.

A SERVICE TO BE PROUD OF

The Naval Aviator is a Naval Officer who flies with the Fleet. Above the gold lace on his left sleeve are the wings of the Pilot or Observer. Today he is flying — tomorrow he may command a ship. He serves Canada both in the air and on the sea.

Sir Ernest MacMillan Appears Tonight With Victoria Symphony Orchestra

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Today I met a friend of mine who likes music well enough to spend most of her "mad money" on concerts throughout the winter season.

"Looking forward to this evening?" I asked almost immediately.

"What's this evening?" She looked blank.

"Sir Ernest MacMillan and the Vitcoria Symphony!" I said, shocked. She sensed reproof in my raised eyebrows and retreated behind a lunch-hour-wristwatch-checking routine and a flurried excuse.

"Well, you know, I'm having my holidays next month and I have to save every dollar if I'm going to enjoy California."

"Look," I said; "nothing you could do on your holiday Will bring you the same thrill, the same 'lift' as hearing this concert. Take it from me—I've had a preview."

"You really think so?" she asked. I saw the door was open a crack so I stuck my foot in and my neck out. (Don't worry, I knew I was perfectly safe. The only loser would be my friend if she didn't listen to me).

"Listen," I said. And she did. For 15 minutes, at least. Because when I talk on a favorite subject, time can go fly a kite.

I told her about the wonderful response Sir Ernest gets from the musicians; how he practically charms the effects he desires from each section, how perfect and satisfying his readings are; how exciting it is to realize the tremendous capability of the orchestra in rising to the inspiration of the great conductor.

I told her how I had sat in the cool theatre on Sunday afternoon, and grown hot and cold by turns and ached to have an instrument in my hands and be up there with all those lucky, wonderful people.

I told her about the Dvorak Second Symphony, which is the major work to be played tonight, and that if she was not familiar with it she couldn't afford to waste another 24 hours without hearing it. It is so lively that it is leagues ahead of the better known "New World."

"You're lucky," I told her. "You're darn lucky I ran into you. Because if I hadn't you'd have wasted a couple of bucks or more on some goofy souvenir down south instead of investing it in an experience worth 10 times that amount!"

"Excuse me," said my friend, and hurried off. No, she wasn't trying to get away from my tongue—she was dashing across the road and straight to the symphony box office to get herself a ticket for tonight—or tomorrow!

He Couldn't Stand His Mother-in-Law

SHEFFIELD, England (Reuters)—Less than two hours after they were married a husband walked out on his wife, a divorce court judge said Monday after issuing an annulment. The reason: he got into an argument with her mother.

(BB TO A) "KING OF THE KHYBER RIFLES" (Odeon)—The variance between this column's rating on this 20th Century Fox wide-screen Cinemascope effort is based on whether the viewer wants plot or action.

If it's action the theatregoer desires then here it is in awesome magnitude, with India the locale and a fight between a small British garrison and ferocious tribesmen as the focus point. There are two sequences in particular that are guaranteed to have you "hugging shelter," one where captured Britishers are tied to stakes while tribesmen ride them down with lances, and, the second, where tribesmen and tribesmen meet, knives versus rifles.

On the plot and casting side, however, "King Of the Khyber Rifles" doesn't fare nearly so well.

The plot, for instance, when measured up against the action and the grandiose scenery, is a small thing that is sadly run of the mill. Here is something about it.

British officer Tyrone Power joins the garrison under the command of Michael Rennie. Shortly afterwards, however, his admiring brother officers discover he is a half-caste and thereupon give him a wide berth in the social doings of the fort. However, accustomed to such things for a long time, Power stays away from parties and balls. The CO's daughter, Mistress Terry Moore, won't put up with such practices and chases Power for all she is worth, which is worth quite an effort.

Even with this average plot, however, it still might have rung true if it had not been for Miss Moore, who, to our way of thinking, was sadly miscast. We say this carefully, too, for the up-and-coming young star is one of our favorites. We particularly liked her in "Come Back Little Sheba" and in that fine film "Man On a Tightrope." In "King Of the Khyber Rifles," however, we feel as though the role should have gone to a genuine English actress whose accent and appreciation of the role would have given the film more depth. Throughout Miss Moore never had her "English accent" well in hand and she seemed forever to be having difficulty in understanding her lines.

But these are the mechanics. The picture is good fun and chock-full of truly excellent photography.

The International Calvert House Architectural Competition was conceived as a positive contribution to the Canadian way of life. It was planned as a means to stimulate architects not only in Canada but also in other countries to think, and work, in terms of more attractive and efficient homes for Canadians. Now Calvert Distillers Limited is making available to all Canadians the winning designs in this International Competition.

The Competition was conducted under the supervision of the School of Architecture of McGill University with $12,000 in cash awards contributed by Calvert. It was open to architects and architectural students in Canada, Great Britain and Europe and called for an original design for a "Home of Tomorrow" for a typical young Canadian family of five.

More than 650 entries were received from 17 different countries—the largest response ever accorded a competition of this kind anywhere in the world. A distinguished jury of one European and two Canadian architects selected the winning designs.

The geographical scope and large number of entries, together with the excellence of the designs submitted, indicate that the original hopes and aims of the International Calvert House Competition have been realized: that it has indeed made a contribution to the development of better homes and better living for Canadians.

Dr. Charels S. Cameron, medical director of the cancer society, said he quit a week ago and added that he would advise teen-agers not to start smoking cigarettes.

HERE'S A GAL MAKING PASSES AT A GUY WHO WEARS GLASSES

A Nanaimo driver flagged down a policeman Monday at midnight and complained that a woman passenger "just wouldn't leave him alone." She had been kicking and slapping him while he drove.

Police warned the woman of the possible serious consequences. They said she had been drinking.

Ten minutes later, the driver, agitated, telephoned from the edge of town. The woman was still bullying him. And not only did she slap him this time but when he stopped the car—she ran off with his glasses.

Torture Murder Suspects Held

Farmer, Italian Immigrant Quizzed In Killing of Port Arthur Family

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (BUP)—Funeral services for a 28-year-old mother and her two children, victims of a murder and arson attack, were held here today while police questioned two suspects in connection with the gruesome slaying.

Police held Edward Beatty, a 43-year-old Georgetown farmer, and Raffaele Esposito, a 30-year-old Italian immigrant who can speak only broken English. Inspector John Craig of the Criminal Investigation Bureau questioned both men.

Heart-broken German immigrant Horst Kopplin was unable to give police any reason why anyone would tie up his wife, Hedwig, and then set fire to their lonely cabin. Their two children, five-year-old Reinhardt and 10-months-old Rita, perished in the fire along with their mother.

Esposito, a railway section hand, was picked up last night at a Canadian National Railways work camp six miles from Kelly, the scene of the murder. Inspector Craig said he had been seen in Kelly the day of the murder.

Earlier, Beatty was found wandering on the tracks 12 miles south of the little outpost where the immigrant family lived in a tiny wooden cabin.

Esposito was a member of a special railway work party about eight miles from the Kopplin home. There were about 100 men in the gang, and police said they would likely question all of them.

Kopplin last saw his family alive May 29, when he left to work at Mine Centre, 200 miles

1,000 Families Homeless in Iowa Floods

Property Damage Totals Millions

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—The greatest flood crest in Iowa's history rolled down the Des Moines River valley today as state-wide peril from marauding rivers continued.

Rains in central Iowa Monday added to flooding on the Des Moines River, while in the northwest the Floyd River was expected to crest today for the second time in three days at Sioux City.

More than 1,000 families are homeless so far. One drowning has been reported.

Loss in property and rich farm land has totalled millions of dollars.

Des Moines' new levee system is expected to get its first serious test when a crest of 27 to 28 feet, four feet above flood stage, strikes late Thursday. The previous record stage was 26.5 feet years ago.

MIKE THE MONK BACK HOME AFTER WEEK-END OF WOO

HALIFAX (CP)—Mike the Monkey tottered home to bed today after a week-end fling that coincided strangely with the disappearance of a girl monkey halfway across the city.

Owner George Powers reported Mike flopped wearily through an open window in the greenhouse at the rear of his home. He had been on the loose since late Sunday afternoon.

The female monkey, called Little Girl, also flew the coop Sunday afternoon and did not return for several hours. She is owned by Mrs. Bert Cooper of North Halifax.

Mike and Little Girl are not acquainted as far as anyone knows but they both came from the same part of South America. At least they weren't acquainted up until Sunday.

Mrs. Bowers said Mike thumped his skinny chest once or twice before he fell asleep today.

Vancouver Men Saved From Sinking Trawler

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Two men escaped death Monday when a $16,000 West Coast trawler sank in harbor here.

The trawler Lacomone had just left an ice plant near the CNR docks after unloading 15,000 tons of black cod. She was headed for a fueling station when she ran into a tide rip and started to heel towards starboard. Owner Bill Kullberg said that her decks were awash in a matter of minutes.

Kullberg was at the helm at the time and Kunte Knudsen was beside him. Two other crew members had decided to remain ashore.

The tug Progressive spotted the heeling Lacomone and rushed to the rescue. By the time the Progressive reached the scene, Kullberg and Knudsen were standing on the deckhouse with water up to their hips.

The tug took the men off, but could do nothing to save the vessel as the Progressive had two barges in tow. However, another tug, the Kathy K started to tow the floundering Lacomone ashore. She had just managed to get the sinking ship into dock before the Lacomone went down.

Kullberg said the combined force of the rip tide and the waves af a passing ship must have caused the mishap. He said the Lacomone was very seaworthy and had withstood some "pretty tough" coastal storms without damage. He said the vessel also was riding very light at the time of the mishap.

Kullberg said salvage operations would probably get under way today. The Lacomone was fully insured.

B.E.G. Athletes Arrive

Flyweight Flannery has been wrestling for 10 years and Cowdrey is a middleweight of four years' standing.

More Walking Students Is Williston's Objective

Drive-In Service for 'Hot' Garbage

Alan Baraclough was hauling refuse from Veterans' Hospital and Bay Street Armoury early today when someone yelled, "You're afire." He was at Fisgard and Government, so he wheeled into the rear of the fire department. A fire truck raced around three sides of the block while flames roared 10 feet into the air. Driver blamed fire on hot ashes, says he isn't breaking city outside workers' strike. "I always have hauled this garbage. We dump it at Macaulay Point and burn it." (Times Photo.)

Will Study Bus Costs

Education Minister Ray Williston thinks more B.C. school children should use leg power to get to school, instead of riding in expensive school buses.

He announced today the department of education will undertake an immediate review of school transportation in an effort to halt rising cost of taking children to school in buses.

"We hope more leg power will lead to more head power in the final analysis," he said. "School transportation costs are rising almost one-quarter million dollars a year, and we think perhaps that is too much."

PROBE PLANNED

Mr. Williston said newly-appointed director of school services Dr. W. A. Plenderleith will probe the school bus situation throughout the province.

"There is a tendency in some areas for the distance to be walked to school to get less and less," said Mr. Williston. "The whole matter is now subject to review."

SHARP RISE

Mr. Williston said school transportation cost B.C. taxpayers $2,186,000 last year, compared with $1,927,000 in 1952, and $1,661,000 in 1951.

Dr. Plenderleith will be asked to set a basic distance from which buses will operate. "Only essential, absolutely essential bus service should be provided," said Mr. Williston.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, JUNE 22, 1954

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Even when I'm trying to put on the dog, the photogs will only let me put on a LITTLE dog.

For a long time, I have been brooding over Victoria's position as a Little Bit of Olde Englande.

(Don't worry about this too much. I brood easy, but I heal quick).

As a loyal native son, I am anxious to see Victoria succeed in whatever objectives it may have, and if Victoria is anxious to become a Little Bit of Olde Englande, I am all in favor of helping as much as possible.

But I am handicapped by a lack of personal knowledge of Olde Englande herself. For all I know, Victoria may be as much a Small Chunk of Mesopotamia as it is a Little Bit of Olde Englande.

I am anxious to make Victoria whatever it wants to be. But how can I help when I never knew Olde Englande?

No wonder I'm brooding.

However, I've done more than brood. I've gone around asking people who've lived in England what we need in this city to make us a LB of OE.

One suggestion was, we should do something about our fogs.

Our fogs, I am told, are just not good enough.

We never have a real pea soup fog. About the best we have achieved so far is a sort of consomme-type fog.

And I've also been told we are sadly lacking in castles, haunted, with certified A-1 genuine ghosts.

This not only disqualifies Victoria as a LB of OE, but is a plain disgrace to a city situated on the Pacific Ghost.

Another informant suggests what we need here is a real English Spring. But he adds, if we had one, we'd undoubtedly chlorinate it, fluoridate it, attach a meter and apply hours of usage restrictions.

(I suspect this informant was having a bit of fun with me, what?)

As you can see, I haven't achieved much in my attempt to learn what Victoria needs to be a real, honest, Little Bit of Olde Englande.

So I humbly appeal to all constituents who have an intimate knowledge of OE herself.

Since you came to this part of the world, what do you most miss? What are your outstanding memories of England? A thatched roof? A walrus moustache? A pair of calf-length white overshoes? Time, gentlemen, please?

There must be something. Please let me know—and we'll see if it can be imported to improve Victoria's position as a Little Bit of Olde Englande.

Even if it's only a tiny little bit.

VISITING HERE — Assistant managing editor of Life Magazine, well-known Canadian journalist Robert T. Elson flew into Victoria from New York with his wife last night, and is a guest at the Empress. Mr. Elson is en route to Vancouver, where he will address the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association annual dinner. Mr. Elson told The Times that Time Inc.'s new magazine, "Sports Illustrated," already had a charter subscription sale of 250,000 and "would probably go higher" before publication date in August.

Power Increase Granted Second Victoria Radio

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation board of governors on Monday approved application by CJVI Victoria for an increase in power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts, to take place "very soon."

Also approved was an application from CKDA Victoria to establish a new FM broadcasting station here, providing additional service to the area and making possible an emergency link with the transmitter.

CKDA was also granted permission to change the name of the license from David M. Armstrong to Capital Broadcasting System Ltd., without control of the station being affected. The station had previously been authorized to increase power to 5,000 watts. CKDA will be broadcasting within a month from its new Chatham Island transmitter.

Commenting on the go-ahead statement, CJVI manager W. M. Guild said from Seattle Monday night:

"We're very pleased that the CBC has approved our application for 5,000 watts. There is very little construction necessary to make the changeover, and we'll be broadcasting on our new power very soon with the same dial position of 900 kc.

"Further developments to improve CJVI's service to Vancouver Island residents will take place this fall."

Safety Patrols Given Awards For Good Work

Safety patrol awards were made today to students at Oak Bay, Primary and St. Ann's Academy on behalf of Victoria Kiwanis Safety Patrol Committee.

Recognition goes to students who take part in guiding school children across traffic lanes before and after school.

Other presentations this week will be Wednesday at Margaret Jenkins, 2 p.m.; Thursday at George Jay, 9 a.m., Tolmie at 1 p.m., Craigflower 1.30, Oak Bay Junior High 1.30, North Ward 1.30, Lampson Street 2 p.m.; Saturday at Malvern, 5 p.m.

Monday, 19 students at Quadra School were awarded gold, silver or bronze pins for three, two and one year's service, deputy police chief Harry Mercer presiding.

Also Monday, C. J. Williams and Arnold McDermid, Kiwanis representatives, made presentations at Willows, Cloverdale and Tillicum Schools. View Royal School pupils were similarly honored.

PINS PRESENTED

Last week certificates denoting four years or more service were presented to various patrol members in city schools as were pins.

Two special certificate awards were made by police commissioner Gordon Carter in a Friday ceremony to Junior Central High students Clifford Leachman and Maurice Cherneff.

Total number of schools with safety patrols is 25, including Victoria and the municipalities, said Eric Day, chairman of Kiwanis safety patrol committee.

Presentations started June 2, and have been made largely by Kiwanis Club members with police and police commissioners assisting.

Members of the Kiwanis committee in charge of safety patrols include city police Constable Ian Duncan, provincial traffic inspector, school inspector, city traffic engineer, members of the RCMP and representatives from city council and city police commission.

Card-Less Driver Draws $25 Fine

Driving without a license cost Donald Arthur Easterby, HMCS Naden, $25, in Esquimalt court Monday. He told Magistrate H. C. Hall that he had been halfway through tests for his license the day he was arrested—then the office closed. The magistrate thought he should have waited until he had completed the other half before driving and imposed the minimum fine.

DEAD WOMAN FOUND IN FORT ST. FLAT

Domestic Gas Believed Cause

Domestic gas is believed responsible for the death of a city woman who was discovered in a Fort Street apartment today by a B.C. Electric worker.

Pending notification of relatives, police are withholding the name of the victim.

Detectives, a police ambulance and Dr. E. L. McNiven attended when workmen in the building found the body of a 60-year-old woman in a downstairs flat at 1165 Fort.

DEAD 12 HOURS

The doctor thought that the woman had been dead about 12 hours.

Officials said that a burner had been opened on the gas range apparently by something, possibly a hip or elbow brushing against it.

The woman lived alone. Her three-room flat is in the west basement section of the cream stuccoed apartments.

The name of the man who smelled the gas and made the discovery has not been revealed.

Police attended the call just before noon.

The body was removed to Sands Mortuary Ltd.

THIRD THIS YEAR

The woman is the third to die this year in Victoria in a gas-filled room.

A ruptured gas main which trickled gas into the office of the Hoover Company at Fort and Cook contributed to the death of Mrs. Helen Mitchell, 62, January 6.

William A. Howat, 40, 321 Michigan, was found gassed to death May 17 at his home.

B.C. Electric officials recently announced that they intend to have non-toxic gas only in city pipes by this fall.

Carey Bridge Replacement In Spring

Government, CNR To Share Costs

Provision will be made in next year's estimates for replacement of the narrow CNR bridge overpass at Carey Road on Douglas, Provincial Public Works officials said today.

Deputy public works minister Evan Jones said a start would probably be made on the bridge replacement next spring, and not in "one year," as earlier reported.

The bridge is a bottle-neck on the new Patricia Bay Highway, and has been the subject of complaints by many motorists traveling on the road.

CNR BID STUDIED

Construction of the bridge this year was held up pending negotiations with the CNR. The province claimed full replacement costs should have been borne by the railway.

A setlement is now being made out of court. A tentative bid of $22,500 made by the railway as its share of the total $80,000 cost is still being studied by the government.

No start could be made on the bridge this year because the project was not included in 1954 government estimates. Repair work will be carried out when needed, said Mr. Jones.

SUMMER FLOWER SHOW

Rose Growers Vie For Challenge Cup

Hundreds of Victoria gardeners are selecting their most perfectly formed and fragrant roses for exhibition at the Victoria Horticultural Society summer flower show at the Crystal Garden on Friday and Saturday.

Exhibitor of the champion rose of the show will receive the prized Oak Bay Municipality Challenge Trophy.

The show will also feature roses of all types, arranged in bowls and baskets. Some of the flowers will include new varieties, as well as miniature and buttonhole roses.

An exhibition of sweet peas will be an added attraction. There will also be displays of begonias, delphiniums, iris, canterbury bells and antirrhinums.

Show officials are expecting keen competition in the flower arrangements classes. In the past five years flower-arranging has been developed into a fine art.

African violet fans are also expected to exhibit a large number of their potted plowers.

There will also be a display of fruits and vegetables.

W. J. Pynn, VHS executive, said today he expected this year's flowers to be outstanding.

"The cool weather has kept the flowers in better condition," he said. "The flowers will be a sight to see and should be seen by all those interested in the hobby of horticulture."

Neighbors Rescue Boys When Leaky Boat Sinks

A leaky boat sank under Ronald Lewis, 11, 343 Robertson, and Colin Gurnsey, 10, 350 Irving, about 600 yards offshore in Foul Bay Monday night but beach residents saved them from harm.

Garry Stinson, 15, 1851 Hollywood Crescent was one of the first to see the danger. He noted the boat was low in the water and guessed it soon would sink.

Running outside he met his teacher, D. G. Macdonald, 1857 Hollywood Crescent, who had also seen the boys. Together, the pair launched a boat and without pausing for oars set out for the two boys who were by this time in the water. The boat had capsized.

With makeshift paddles, Gary and his teacher reached the boys, now swimming for shore, just as another boat which neighbors had been painting on the beach, arrived. David Crockett, 161-B Robertson, and two unidentified boys were in it. Rescuers had launched it immediately, in spite of the wet paint. Each boat picked up one boy.

Just before six-footer Crockett pulled a boy into the boat, the lad shouted: "Help me, I can't make it."

The shivering boys were taken to the home of W. Earl Eby, 159 Robertson, where they soon recovered from their experience.

Crashes Injure Two Cyclists

A bicyclist and a motorcyclist were injured today in separate collisions with cars.

Saanich police rushed Linda Olsen, 6, to Jubilee Hospital at 8.05 a.m. after she collided with a car driven north on West Saanich Road by Joseph Scheuber, of Patterson, California.

The little girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Olsen, 667 Beaver Lake Road, was kept in children's ward for observation. She suffered leg, arm and face cuts and was knocked unconcious by the impact.

At 8.15 a.m. motorcyclist Barry Massey, 21, Glen Court Hotel, was rushed to Jubilee by city police ambulance. He suffered undetermined back and arm injuries when in collision with a car at Dunedin and Gorge.

The car was driven by Peter Doyle, 589 John Street, police said. There was moderate damage to both vehicles.

Transfer Of Inspector Suggested

Transfer of B. Thorsteinsson, school inspector, from Cowichan School District 65 "for the good of the district" is being urged at Cobble Hill.

A resolution asking for the inspector's transfer was passed at a meeting of representatives of the unorganized portion of District 65.

One reason for the action taken was the recent dismissal of a school teacher, in which residents of the district felt the inspector was largely to blame.

"It was felt that if he were gone it would help to 'square things around' somewhat," said Trustee George E. Bonner.

68-Year-Old Man Found Dead in Car

Norman Octavius Carpenter, 68, 5518 Old West Road, was found dead in a car near the Rose Gardens in Beacon Hill Park Monday afternoon. Police said death was apparently due to natural causes. The body was taken to Sands Mortuary Ltd. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Landon Moves Into Higher B.C. Post

Mr. Landon succeeds Wililam MacGilivray, who earlier this month was elevated to the post of deputy minister of agriculture. Mr. Landon's appointment is effective July 1.

The new development director is a graduate of UBC, and first joined the staff of the provincial agriculture department as a poultry inspector in 1926. He was appointed poultry commissioner in 1946, and is a member of the Agricultural Institute of Canada, and the B.C. Institute of Agrologists.

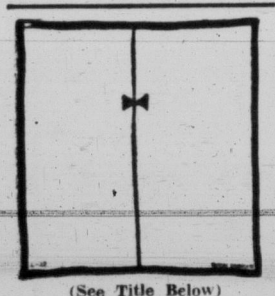
DROODLES



(See Title Below)

It's a fact that in spite of repeated urgings on the part of the operator, elevator riders have a tendency to jump up in the front so that no one else can get on or off. I have a few hints for frustrated elevator operators who have been having trouble getting the passengers to stand in the back of the car. Here they are: (1) Use reverse psychology. Keep yelling, "Stand in the front of the car, please," and the passengers will all stand in the back, just to be ornery. (2) Eat lots of garlic for breakfast every morning and breath deeply. This should keep them in the back of the car. If these methods don't work try (3), a more direct technique. Hit them with a ball bat.

It's Flower Show Season, Starting Friday

By HILDA BEASTALL

Each year as the various flower shows come around, those responsible for their management experience a few bad days wondering: "Will the flowers be out in time for the show? Is the season too early or too late?"

These questions are perennial; they come up year after year. And each year the flower shows are set up, opened, run, and closed. Their success depends not so much on the earliness or lateness of the season, as on the enthusiasm of the exhibitors and the desire of the public to see and learn more about plants they may use in their gardens.

The flower shows are not money-making propositions, their purpose is entirely educational. But the sponsors always hope expenses will be covered by paid admissions.

This week, on Friday and Saturday, in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden, local gardeners will be able to see and compare many of the summer-flowering perennials and especially roses. The occasion is the summer show of the Victoria Horticultural Society.

In addition to 39 classes for roses, other sections call for sweet peas, tuberous begonias, delphinium, Japanese and English iris, dianthus, lilies, peonies, pansies, and a few annuals.

Sixteen classes are listed for vegetables and these will reveal that some sections of the Victoria area are far ahead of others.

The artistic arrangements, which attract more entries and more interest each year, are limited only by the imagination of the arrangers.

New Plastic Traveling Brush Will Serve Many Purposes...

By PENNY SAVER

Stop . . . this may be just what you're looking for: a brush that is a souvenior of Victoria as well as being a type that you can use for clothing, upholstry or suede . . . and it has a durable plastic handle that serves a duo purpose by being the container as well.

When not in use, the bristles of the brush fit inside the handle, which is a hollow shell. This makes it a perfect traveling accessory. Then, to use for suede, you simply move a little knob to a notch marked "suede" and enough of the bristles will appear to form a small and stiff suede brush.

You move the knob up another notch for brushing upholstery and for whisking clothing, you let all the bristles out . . . $1.25.

Bright summer cottons all the way from Munich are yours for the buying. You pay $2.50 a yard for the 36 inches wide fabric. A good price . . . but you should see and feel the quality. This cotton is finely and firmly woven, and comes in a gay red, green and yellow design on a white ground. . . , Crease resistant, too.

Some men go through work clothes in a matter of weeks. Their poor wives are usually at their wits end to think of some way to preserve the clothes that give 'way so easily to hard wear. Some are smart and buy jackets with reinforcement leather patches at the elbows. They find that jackets of this type have double life of ordinary ones. Only thing is that such jackets are apt to be quite a bit more expensive than the price you are accustomed to paying. But no matter, wait till you hear about the leather patches with perforated edges for simple sewing. For just 49 cents you can buy a pair to sew on the elbows of your husband's work jacket. Or, should he have a job that requires him to kneel and he wears out the knees of his trousers, the patches sewn in the right spots will make them last and last. Use the patches for kiddies' clothes, too. They come in grey, black, navy and brown.

Young Stars in Revue Show Results of Good Training

A wonderland of fantasy and enchantment poscsessed the Royal Theatre Monday night, when dozens of small children, like bunches of bright blossom, sophisticated tappers and slender budding ballerinas, took over the stage in Wayne Shaw's 1954 revue, "Our Stars of Tomorrow."

A charming tale of a poor little girl's birthday was danced by the tiniest youngsters who charmed the audience with their naive assurance and artless manner. Pink icing fairies, decorations on the birthday cake, cooks and maids and yellow fairies as well as the little girl's friends took part in a festival of color and simple, nicely executed movement.

Particularly delightful were the baby skunks and solo parts were taken by Mary Spilsbury who was a dainty "little girl," Linda Lambie as a leopard and Diane Limon as the wishing fairy.

A Spanish La Jota, a group of Irish colleens, some clever tap and acrobatic routines and a Polish Mazurka added intriguing variety to the program. Particularly outstanding was a series of excerpts from the classics which included the girl's bluebird solo from "Sleeping Beauty," danced by Sheila MacDonald; lilac and rose fairy fro mthe same ballet and waltz from "Les Sylphide," danced by Shirley Green, and that famous test of delicate precision from "Swan Lake," Dance of the Little Swans, in which Sheila MacDonald, Gwen Gillie, Carole Slater and Peggy Carl acquitted themselves well.

Also impressive in the scope of technique attained, natural flair and vitality, were Tricks for Three, danced by Rema Stofer, Diane Limon and Mary Spilsbury; Tap Sophistication, in which latter two were teamed with Beverley Cates and Jan Fraser; a solo, Alexander's Ragtime Band, by Arlene Atkinson, and Stepping Out, in which Bill Lawson and Allen Farrell were featured.

A most attractive little ballet in which Sheila MacDonald and Allen Farrell took the parts of prince and princess, was "At the Court of the Dancing Princess." A passepied beautifully danced by Gwen Gillie was the highlight of this number.

An accomplished pas de seul, graceful, technically smooth and lissomé was presented by Shirley Green, who fully deserved her programming as "One of Our Stars of Tomorrow."

Closing the evening was a Schubert Dance Suite, the featured soloist being another highly competent and promising young dancer of elegance and charm, Gwen Gillie. A Chopin Mazurka had as soloist, Marie Maggiora.

Lovely and striking costumes, well chosen and executed music, sound principals of instruction, imagination and talent, made this evening with "Our Stars of Tomorrow", thoroughly memorable.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What a Husband! Never Takes Wife Out Alone

What a shame it is that so many husbands and wives cannot enjoy their children together. Either the wife is tense and preoccupied with directing the small fry or the husband is irritated by the confusion they create.

It is true that husbands and wives cannot have the carefree companionship and uninterrupted conversation they usually have when their children are with them but they fall heir to such a rich experience in the mutual fun with and enjoyment of their offspring.

No one in his right mind would say that excursions with small children and travel with them is not hectic. However, if these situations are met with gaiety and humor they can be awfully funny as well as heart warming. A letter before me says:

"We mothers enjoy our children but why don't some husbands allow us to untie ourselves from our duty and responsibility if only for a few hours now and then?

"My husband cannot tolerate our three youngsters when he is at home, yet thinks I am completely insane if I wish for a moment of freedom. He claims that we must wait until our children are grown before we can enjoy ourselves as we did, so he goes out with the boys because we cannot enjoy ourselves if we drag the whole family along.

"I cannot afford a baby sitter and have not been out without the children for five years."

What a man. Evidently he means that his wife will have to wait for the children to grow up before she enjoys herself in ways she did before her marriage. What a louse.

Yet many really fine men who love their wives are blind in this spot. I believe this is true because they think of earning a living as their part and rearing the children and running the house as the wife's. In a sense this is true but no matter how much a woman loves her children their constant care is extremely exhausting.

A few hours away with adult companionship and no responsibility will send the mother back with a fresh viewpoint and renewed energy and she will be a much better companion. Every woman should have this and if her husband cannot afford a baby sitter once in a while, he should be thoughtful enough to do a little sitting at home himself.

This still doesn't take care of some carefree companionship between husband and wife without their children. I can't help believing that this could almost always be arranged some way once in a while if the wish is strong enough.

If men and women could change jobs for a week they would understand the problems of each much better.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Keeping Romance Alive," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 63 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Doreen Eaton Wears Gown Of French Lace, Net, Taffetta

A waltz-length, princess model wedding gown of French lace over net and taffeta was worn by dark-haired Sylvia Doreen Eaton when she entered St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church to become the bride of David Peter MacDonald. The fitted bodice of her gown was covered by a matching lace jacket and a Juliet cap trimmed with tiny seed pearls held her chapel-length veil of illusion net. White carnations and pink rosebuds formed her colonial bouquet.

White gladioli and mixed summer flowers decorated the church. John Frederick Eaton, brother of the bride, gave her in marriage, and "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Ralph Meakes.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Eaton, 912 Old Esquimalt Road, and the late F. G. Eaton. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross MacDonald, Cranbrook, B.C.

As maid of honor, Miss Kathleen Laidler was gowned in pink nylon organza styled in an off-shoulder mode with graceful ballerina-length skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, centred with yellow rosebuds, and her headdress was a bandeau of pleated nylon net sprinkled with tiny flowers.

Bridesmaid Miss Nadine Wright wore a gown of pink nylon lace over taffeta with matching lace jacket. She carried a bouquet of carnations and pink rosebuds and wore a bandeau headdress similar to that of the maid of honor.

John Ross MacDonald was best man for his brother. Ushers were Joseph MacDonald, William Blaney and Stuart Drennan.

Reception was held at Connaught House, where toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, David Wright.

A damask cloth covered the bride's table, which was centred by the three-tier wedding cake embedded in pink tulle and flanked by pink candles in crystal holders.

For receiving guests, mothers of the bride wore a dress of Alice blue crepe, featuring a bodice of lace, with matching lace skirt panel. She had navy and white accessories and gardenia corsage.

The bride donned a dress of pink corded silk in princess style with white collar and cuffs, pink and white accessories and a gardenia corsage for traveling on honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald are motoring in the interior and the United States. They will return to live in Victoria.

Recorded Voice of R. W. Mayhew Toasts Bride at Today's Wedding

Massed arrangements of white peonies, Ester Reed daisies and blue iris at either side of the pulpit and in tall standard baskets at the front of the church, created a setting for the wedding of Miss Georgiana Lillian Maude Wilson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Victoria, and Mr. Charles Augustus Grey Ossulston, San Francisco, this afternoon at 3 o'clock in First United Church.

His Excellency R. W. Mayhew, Canadian ambassador in Japan, on a recording, made in and sent from Tokyo, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held at the home of her parents on Pemberton Road following the ceremony. The record was introduced by Mr. W. T. Straith.

Dr. Wilson read the marriage service and organ music by Bach was played by Mrs. Roberto Wood. As the bride walked up the aisle on the arm of Mr. Gilbert Wilson, Regina, the strains of "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" filled the church and later "Sheep May Safely Graze" was played.

The bride's gown was of aquamarine tucked taffeta, styled with short length bouffant skirt over a crinoline and with a bodice featuring cap sleeves and deep V-neckline. She wore earrings and necklace of culture pearls, and linen pumps in matching aquamarine blue. A small bandeau of aquamarine blue circled her dark hair and held a nose-tip veil. Her round bouquet was of white orchids and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Ian Butters, as matron of honor, wore a polished cotton gown in rosewood shade in the same style as the bride's. Her large greyish-pink straw hat was trimmed with matching ribbon. She wore shoes and gloves in the same tones and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and cornflowers. Mr. John Emerson, Vancouver, was best man.

Guests were ushered to pews marked with white carnations and blue cornflowers by Mr. Logan Mayhew, Lieut.-Cmdr. Bruce McGregor, Mr. Jack Alton and Prof. Roger Bishop.

At the reception Mrs. W. G. Wilson, wearing a gown of shaded silk nylon in tones of mauve, blue and rose, with pink hat trimmed with flowers in complementing colors, assisted in receiving guests.

Pink and white carnations and peonies decorated the reception rooms and the bride's table, which was centred with a wedding cake topped with sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ossulston will spend their honeymoon on a motor trip in California. For traveling the bride chose a coat dress of Wedgewood blue trimmed with white linen collar and cuffs, white accessories and white straw pixie hat.

Their future home will be at 622 Taylor Street, San Francisco, Calif.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

As in the case of yesterday's hand, South is a trifle light for the opening bid of two no-trump. This bid usually shows 22-24 points with balanced distribution and all four suits securely stopped. Today's hand is taken, however, from an English set of par hands. In England, the opening bid of two no-trump is made a little lighter than over here.

When the hand was played in the contest, West was required to open the jack of diamonds. Declarer naturally played low from the dummy, and East naturally played the king. South must drop the queen of diamonds in order to make sure of his contract!

South can later lead a low diamond to finesse dummy's nine. He takes a club finesse and enters dummy again with the ace of diamonds to repeat the club finesse. By this means, South can win all four club tricks to add to the two diamonds, the two spades and the ace of hearts in order to make his game contract.

South needs two entries to dummy in order to repeat the club finesse. If South fails to drop the queen of diamonds at the first trick, he cannot be sure of getting to dummy twice with diamonds.

What happens if South keeps the queen of diamonds and later leads a low diamond towards dummy? If West is alert to the situation, he will play the ten of diamonds and thus force dummy to win with the ace. Now South still has the queen of diamonds while dummy has the nine. South has the same number of diamond tricks, to be sure, but he can get to the dummy only once and can therefore take only one club finesse.

It isn't very hard for West to make this play, since he can be practically sure that East has played a singleton king of diamonds when he wins the first trick and then shifts to a different suit. With the diamond situation exposed, West can see that it costs him nothing to put up the ten.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1954

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—All sorts of matters come into the open, so don't feel you are being put upon, but be grateful that you have a chance to know just where you do stand; it's an opportunity to get your affairs in better order now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Unpleasant restrictions are best handled, attended, by pitching in, seeing just what confronts you, winding things up in short order; use your wonderful magnetic quality to placate others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Financial affairs just can't seem to please, no matter how you look at them, so you are given chance to get your budget in good shape by lopping off unnecessary expenses, being economical.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Make sure you take no chances where your credit is concerned or others can blast your good name; this is easily avoided by being meticulous about your obligations.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)—Getting off to brighter, clearer skies takes away from some long-time annoyance that still vexes when you think of it; cheerful attitude, new acquaintances aid very much.

VIRGO (August 22 to Sept. 22)—Temptation to spend far more than you can afford in pleasures, ephemeral joys would cause criticism from staunch supporters who feel you are letting them down. Be cautious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Making sure you do not let any partner, opponent feel you are acting in any manner that is inimical to best interests of anyone saves difficulty in vocation as well as with family.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Complete routine regularities as early, efficiently, quickly as you can; then get away from them completely—off to all sorts of interesting ideas that make life easier, more worthwhile. Be open-minded.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Refuse to be hastened into investing, putting up your money or property, even from inner urges; be amusing, enjoy economical pleasures while searching for right answers.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You really want to lambast family member, or other trouble is likely to exist at home; this is your day to get out and seek companions with whom you can come to better understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Get away from those petty problems that seem unending, that mountain of small chores; jaunts to interesting places with compatible companions fine, but drive carefully on highway to avoid accidents.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Seeking better way to handle your property can make your ambitious hopes and wishes more easily obtainable, but it's essential that you modernize some current outmoded system. Charm attachments into more love.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN WEDNESDAY . . .

Wednesday's child is one of those extremely forceful youngsters who sees no reason for being patient and no authority will be recognized unless a firm yet gentle hand is used in all training and discipline, which is certainly a MUST if your progeny is to have the benefit of all of that force, wisely used only in right directions. So, train for some vocation in which lots of energy must be expended, such as sports in early years, or construction, salesmanship for women also in later life.

SKYSCRAPER GOES UP IN JIG TIME

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixty-one workmen put up the aluminum walls of a 22-story office building Monday in 9½ hours, while hundreds of sidewalk superintendents gawked in amazement.

The thin, prefabricated sheets of aluminum, each one two stories high, were bolted into place at the rate of a story every 38 minutes.

Norman Tishman, president of the realty company that is building the new structure at 57th Street and Park Avenue, said the job normally would have taken eight to 10 weeks.

The rush job was arranged to dramatize the ease of the new sheathing method, he said.

Warning Issued By Wheat Council

LONDON (Reuters)—The International Wheat Council wound up a five-day meeting Monday night with a warning that unless an orderly adjustment in present wheat surpluses can be maintained the international wheat trade may seriously deteriorate.

A communique issued by the council called for the co-operation of all wheat importing and exporting countries to prevent such a situation from developing.

No important decisions were taken at the conference, attended by delegates from 39 countries—four exporting countries and 35 importing countries.

English Team Named For Vancouver Games

Three Crack Milers, Bannister, Chataway, Basher to Run in B.E.G.; Peters Is Captain

LONDON (UP)—Roger Bannister, track's 3.59.4 miler, and Chris Chataway, whose pacing helped both Bannister and John Landy to crack the four-minute barrier, today were among the stars named to represent England in the British Empire Games at Vancouver.

Chataway was in the field when Bannister ran his famed mile last month and again was one of the runners Monday at Turku, Finland, when Australia's Landy lowered the mile mark to 3.58.

Jim Peters, Britain's Olympic marathon runner, was named captain of the English squad. Bannister will clash with Landy in the mile. Chris Basher, who also helped Bannister make his record-breaking run, also will be in the mile. Chataway will compete in the three-mile run.

The English team:

100-Yard Dash—K. Box, Geoff Ellis, Alan Lillington and Brian Shenton.

220-Yard Dash — Box, Ellis, Lillington and Shenton.

440 Yards—Alan Dick, Peter Fryer and Angus Scott.

880 Yards—I. H. Boyd, Brian Hewson, Derek Johnson and Don Law.

Mile—Bannister, Brasher and Law.

Three Miles—Chataway, Peter Driver, Fred Gree and Frank Sando.

Six Miles—Stan Cox, Jim Peters and Sando.

Marathon—Cox and Peters.

120-Yard Hurdles—C. Higham and Frankie Parker.

440-Yard Hurdles — Higham, Kane and Ken Wilsmhurst.

Pole Vault—Geoff Elliott.

High Jump—Denis Cox.

Broad Jump—Cox and Wilmshurst.

Hop, Step and Jump—Wilmshurst.

Weight Throw—Cox, Elliott, Mark Pharaoh and John Savidge.

Discus—Pharaoh and Savidge.

Hammer — Peter Allday, D. W. Anthony, Pharaoh and Savidge.

Javelin—D. J. Tucker.

440-Yard Relay — Box, Ellis, Lillington and Sheton.

Mile Relay — Dick, Fryer, Johnson and Scott.

Included in the team are some of Britain's most promising athletes. Distance star Gordon Pirie, who said earlier this year he was unable to decide whether to miss the Empire Games or the European games at Berne, Switzerland, has finally decided to make the Swiss trip and has thus turned down his automatic selection.

CPGA Prize Money Boosted to $3,000

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Professional Golfers' Association announced Monday night that the House of Seagram has agreed to provide $3,000 prize money and a new trophy for the CPGA annual tournament.

Division of the prize money, including first-place money, has not yet been fixed.

Heretofore total prize was $1,000, donated by Emile Collette, of Montreal, honorary president of the CPGA, along with the Cohama Trophy. First prize was $400.

The CPGA tournament this year will be held July 9-10 at the Edmonton Mayfair Club, a week later the Canadian Open at Vancouver Point Grey.

Canadian Rep Cricket Team Named

TORONTO (CP)—Final selection of the team to represent Canada in the United Kingdom this summer was made Monday by the Canadian Cricket Association board of control. Fifteen players will make the trip.

The names of 13 players had been announced previously, but Leslie Wight, Toronto, former West Indies Test player, was unable to accept and his place will be taken by Ken Trestrail of Toronto. The team was completed by the naming of two others, Harold Padmore, captain of the Verdun, Que., club, and E. H. M. Burn of St. Catharines, Ont.

The other members are—Barry Robinson, Vancouver star, now living in London, England, who will captain the team; Tom Brierley, Robert Quintrell, A. S. (Bill) Hendy, Peter Stead, Vancouver; Harry Bullen, Calgary; L. J. H. Gunn, player-manager; Alan Percival, Brian Christen, Toronto; Jim Cameron, London, Ont., and Melville Rilstone and J. L. Lucas, Montreal.

Claxton Explains 'Buzzing'

OTTAWA (CP) — Naval planes which swooped low over Vancouver last May 24 were celebrating the Queen's birthday, Defense Minister Claxton said Monday night.

Unfortunately the public had not been advised, he told the Commons. It was a misunderstanding.

Mr. Claxton was replying to Harold E. Winch (CCF, Vancouver East), who protested the incident.

Mr. Winch said any defect in one of the planes would have meant death for the pilot and possibly for citizens on the ground.

Mr. Claxton said rules against low flying are strictly enforced and service pilots who break them are severely disciplined.

In the case at Vancouver, however, the navy group planned a fly-past at Vancouver as a patriotic demonstration of May 24, when the Queen's birthday was observed in Canada.

Duke Recovers From Accident

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Kent, 18-year-old cousin of the Queen, had a comfortable day Monday and was reported making a satisfactory recovery from head injuries suffered in an automobile accident Sunday.

The young duke was visited by his mother, the Duchess of Kent, and sister, Princess Alexandra, at the national hospital for nervous diseases where he is under care of a brain specialist.

Oak Bay, City Schools Reach Student Limit

Further Shuffling If Pupils Needed

Overcrowding in five schools in Victoria and Oak Bay will necessitate further shuffling of pupils, it was reported to the Greater Victoria School Board Monday by Senior Inspector John Gough.

Enrolment in certain classes at the five—Bank Street, Willows, Monterey, George Jay and Margaret Jenkins—must be considered as incapable of expansion, he said.

Steps have been taken to transfer several pupils from these schools to Oak Bay Primary and Quadra Primary, effective on school opening Sept. 7.

Pupils who from now on take up residence in the areas served by the five schools will be similarly affected.

B.E.G. Booth Draws Interest

Speed Demons Checked By License Suspensions

The authority of the provincial government to suspend driver's licenses is the most powerful weapon against the man who is a road menace.

Charles Copeland, head of the driver education section of the motor vehicle branch, warned at a traffic safety meeting at Hard of Hearing Hall Monday night that suspensions will continue.

He cited one case where a man was convicted 15 times in six years and paid more than $550 in fines. Fines didn't help against his desire for speed. But the suspension has slowed him down—to a walk.

City police traffic department head, Sgt. Brooke Douglass, told the meeting that looking to the right first, when entering an intersection causes many accidents. The traffic from the left will be first dangers, he stressed.

Sgt. Douglass gave detailed instruction on the distance between following cars for safe driving. Allow one car length ahead for every ten miles of speed, he said.

Third speaker was Fred Davidson of the BCER Safety Department. About 50 persons attended. The traffic forum was conducted by the newly-formed Lower Vancouver Island Traffic and Safety Association.

Club Will Operate Beach Concession

LADYSMITH—Mrs. William Grouhel will head a committee of Club Forty-four members that will have charge of the Transfer Beach concession during July and August.

The club, which sponsors work for the blind here, heard a report from Mrs. Wilma Ostel on the CNIB convention in Vancouver in May.

Mrs. John Cochrane was appointed convener in charge of sale of brochures during the Jubilee celebrations July 1.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" if you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 49

Nelles Heads Tourist Trade Group

C. M. "Bob" Nelles was elected chairman of the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce Monday, succeeding Conway Parrott, who though nominated for the post declined to serve an additional term. Named vice-chairman was Sam Lane.

The group heard a report from Jack Klein on progress towards a showboat for Victoria's inner harbor. Cost would be about $3,500, he said.

The roundabout at the Fountain Circle came in for criticism and Mr. Parrott described the present situation as "unsatisfactory." A resolution was passed endorsing any action taken by the traffic committee of the chamber's civic affairs group which might help improve roundabout congestion.

Jock Dunbar outlined a tentative showboat program. Suggested were choir performances Monday; band concert on Tuesday; a variety night Wednesday; Thursday, an evening of western music, and on Friday old time, folk and Scottish music. An amateur show, which will be auditioned beforehand, is slated for Saturday nights.

Mr. Klein said there "are terrific possibilities for top-notch programs."

Bernie Cox, chairman of the flower committee who attended the recent Portland flower festival, said that Portland stores remaining open during the festival and parade reported a 25 per cent boost in sales. He advocated the same proceedure be followed here to aid business.

Rubber yields as high as 75 per cent above normal have been obtained in experiments with hormone treatment of the rubber tree bark.

'And the Green Grass Grows . . .'

While youngsters like the lush growth in Central Park, city softballers don't. The Senior A City Softball League say they can't play in a half-wild field, and if the grass stays uncut because of strike of the city's outside workers, the league may have to suspend its schedule. But these three 10-year-olds prefer grass that's nice and tall and cool. Politics Charged In Road Building

Laing Says B.C. Program 'Scandalous'

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislative Reporter

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing today charged Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi with "scandalous abuse of power and position" and demanded the removal of politics from public works.

Mr. Laing issued a statement on his return from a tour of central and northern B.C. in which he asked for a highway authority "to remove our road planning from the straight political considerations now in control."

"Inconsistent patchwork paving is evident everywhere in the province . . . there is more vote-catching politics in public works today than for the past 20 years," he said.

The Liberal leader said that in Savona, in the home riding of Public Works Minister Gaglardi, rerouting of the Trans Canada Highway paralleled the old road running through the centre for about 1½ miles, but only 200 yards away from it.

"I charge this is a scandalous abuse of power and position," he said. "The residents of Savona so objected that now Gaglardi is spending thousands of dollars paving the road through Savona almost to Trans Canada standards."

MUST BE KEPT OPEN

"We must get some sort of highway plan and some authority that will remove our road planning from straight political considerations," he said.

Mr. Laing said the highly-praised northern Transprovincial Highway in the Huston-Burns Lake area had to be planked for long stretches to enable vehices to get through. Trucks have been banned for two and one-half months.

"We must keep these highways open every day in the year for both cars and trucks," he demanded, "and we can't implement this on a pay-as-you-go basis."

"Let's borrow money, put our highways in shape, and actually save dolars in maintenance at the same time, giving us year-round industrial activity.

"Last year Gaglardi spent almost $1,000,000 on the northern Transprovincial Highway, most of it used in submerging rock and gravel into mudholes," he added.

POLICE SEEK HUSBAND IN HAMMER BEATING

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Cecil Terry remained in an unchanged "critical" condition in General Hospital today, as police sought her husband in an effort to solve the sadistic hammer bludgeoning of the woman Monday morning.

Police were unable to interview the woman in hospital, and have issued a lower mainland pick-up for Mr. Terry, who disappeared before his wife was found brutally beaten in her home.

Police cars converged on the hospital Monday night when Mr. Terry was reported to have called and asked the condition of his wife. The caller made no appearance, and police continued the search for the husband.

A curtain of secrecy was thrown around the case by police, who refused to give any further information on the case.

Civic Strikers Make Concession

Agree to Co-Operate With City In Water Works, Sewer Emergencies

Striking city outside workers have agreed to co-operate with the city in respect to water works, sewer emergencies and burials at Ross Bay Cemetery.

City manager Cecil Wyatt made this announcement today following a one-hour meeting with officers of the Civic Employees' Protective Association.

It was the second meeting within 24 hours. Following a meeting Monday evening it was announced the union would provide limited operation of Johnson Street bridge for the duration of the strike.

A member of the association manned the bridge from 7.30 to 9.30 this morning, and another was scheduled to provide service from 2 till 4 p.m.

PICKETS WITHDRAWN

Pickets were withdrawn from the bridge entirely today.

The union will provide this four-hour service on a seven-day-a-week basis. Until today, the bridge had been operated on a restricted basis by E & N railway people.

Mr. Wyatt said there is still no meeting scheduled between the two sides to discuss settlement of the six-day-old walkout.

$14,000 IN WAGES

The men have missed four working days, and have lost an estimated $14,000 in wages.

Men stationed at the garbage wharf reported no one has shown up for work there since last Friday, and that no garbage has been dumped.

Cecil Holt, president of the association, meantime, has denied any connection between his union and pamphlets reportedly issued by the Labor Progressive party, dealing with the strike.

Premier, Jean Lesage Meet July 14

Federal Minister of Natural Resources and Northern Affairs Jean Lesage will confer with Premier W. A. C. Bennett on vital B.C. expansion plans on July 14.

Premier Bennett's office today confirmed eastern reports of the top-level parley, but said no definite agenda has been set for the meeting. Mr. Lesage will be in the province as part of an extensive tour of western Canada.

Reports from Ottawa say the federal cabinet member will discuss the pending Frobisher development in northern B.C. during the talks. He is expected to reaffirm the federal government's refusal to allow Alcoa, Frobisher's rival for northern B.C. water rights, Canadian Yukon water for U.S. developments in nearby Skagway, Alaska.

Ottawa has an absolute veto on the export of water power, and has repeatedly turned down the Alcoa proposal.

He said the meeting with Chou will take place "on French soil"—in the French embassy in Berne.

The French premier will leave for Berne tonight.

300 Reds Die As French Repel Surprise Attack

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—The Communists threw 3,000 troops in a surprise attack against a French base in central Indo-China but were beaten off with 300 killed, the French high command announced today.

The attack was made against Tuy Hoa, on the Annam coast north of Nhatrang and 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

The French said four Communist battalions swarmed against two all-Viet Namese battalions guarding Tuy Hoa during the night of Sunday and Monday.

A high command spokesman said the Viet Nam units fought "magnificently despite the fierest assaults." He said 300 enemy dead were counted after the attackers withdrew.

Tuy Hoa seized by Franco-Viet Nam soldiers in an amphibious landing operation this spring as part of "Operation Atlante," designed to free some 3,000,000 persons from Communist rule in an 800-square-mile area.

Due to troop shortages during the siege of Dien Bien Phu and subsequent orders to reinforce the vital Red River Delta to the north, the operation was virtually abandoned but Tuy Hoa was held.

Earlier, the high command announced that French union forces killed or captured 144 Communists in an amphibious assault against one of the biggest rebel bases in the Red River Delta.

ZOO EMERGENCY

Struggle To Save Baby Seals

VANCOUVER (CP) — This city's famed Stanley Park zoo had the tense and excited air of a maternity hospital today as officials struggled to save the lives of three orphaned baby sea lions.

Allan Best, harried supervisor, said it may "be a week or 10 days before we know if we can save them," as he and his staff started forced feeding of the fuzzy little seals.

In the meantime, all visitors were being kept away from the enclosure, a ban that will stay on until the seals become stronger and able to take the excitement.

The tiny amphibians were given to the zoo by fishermen who adopted them while fishing in the coastal waters.

Best said that the seals are "healthy now, though quite thin," and added that they "can't say alive forever on forced feeding," which is carried out through a small tube inserted in the throats of the tiny lions.

Govt. Rebels Claim Victories

Guatemala Fighting Picture Confused; Both Sides Claim Wins

UNITED NATIONS, N.J. (UP)—Guatemala notified the United Nations today that the anti-Communist invasion of its country is going on despite the cease-fire order adopted by the Security Council on Sunday.

Guatemalan foreign minister Guillermo Toriello, in his third message to the world organization since the fighting began in his central American country, asked the council to take steps to halt the "invasion."

The Guatemalans did not, however, request a new council meeting to deal with the situation.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Government and rebel forces made rival victory claims today in the four-day-old battle for the Central American Republic of Guatemala. Both sides appeared to be mobolizing for a major fight over the key rail town of Zacapa.

President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's government claimed a success for its armed forces at Gualan, east of Zacapa, about 20 miles inside Guatemala. It said the rebels were run out of town after a brief skirmish, but mentioned no casualties.

The "liberation radio," speaking for the invasion forces of the exiled Guatemalan leader, Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, claimed the rebels hold 25 towns in Guatemala.

Associated Press dispatches from Guatemala City Monday night said Arbenz' troops were massing in the area of Zacapa, a city of some 8,000 on the main rail line between the capital and the Caribbean port of Puerto Barrios.

A rebel flier interviewed near the Honduran border said Castillo Armas' men also were moving by truck towards Zacapa. He said the invaders headed for the rail centre after seizing the cathedral town of Esquipulas in a five-hour battle. Three Guatemalan soldiers were reported killed in that engagement.

FIGHT SEEN COMING

An informed source in this neighboring Honduran capital indicated that a fight for Zacapa is shaping up. He predicted the rebels would abandon their guerrilla tactics within the next 24 hours and seek a pitched battle with Arbenz' army.

The source also said:

1. At least two Guatemalan pilots have fled their country in training planes since the invasion began Friday.

2. Two railroad bridges at Gualan have been destroyed; sabotage along the line between Gualan and Pureto Barrios has increased; a train which left Guatemala City for the port of San Jose "simply disappeared."

3. The rebels have taken over the rail town of Morales, some 50 miles from Puerto Barrios.

4. A rebel plane machine-gunned and dropped grenades on San Jose. The rebels also announced that their planes had bombed Coban, a garrison town in central Guatemala, from a base inside the country.

NO INDUSTRIAL ATOM POWER IN B.C. FOR 10 YEARS—SHRUM

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the University of B.C. physics department, said today that atomic power for industrial uses probably won't come into the province for about 10 years.

He said the main reason for the delay was the relative abundance of hydro-electric power in B.C. He said atomic power is expected to be used in Ontario industry within five years.

Shrum also said that there will be no conflict between atomic power and nautral gas in this province.

He said natural gas was too expensive to be used for generating electric power. However, he said that gas will continue to be used to heat homes and in industrial processes where there is need to apply heat, as in making ceramics.

French Repel Surprise Attack

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—The Communists threw 3,000 troops in a surprise attack against a French base in central Indo-China but were beaten off with 300 killed, the French high command announced today.

The attack was made against Tuy Hoa, on the Annam coast north of Nhatrang and 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

The French said four Communist battalions swarmed against two all-Viet Namese battalions guarding Tuy Hoa during the night of Sunday and Monday.

A high command spokesman said the Viet Nam units fought "magnificently despite the fiercest assaults." He said 300 enemy dead were counted after the attackers withdrew.

Tuy Hoa seized by Franco-Viet Nam soldiers in an amphibious landing operation this spring as part of "Operation Atlante," designed to free some 3,000,000 persons from Communist rule in an 800-square-mile area.

'Patchwork Paving' Liberal Leader Says

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislative Reporter

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing today charged Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi with "scandalous abuse of power and position" and demanded the removal of politics from public works.

Mr. Laing issued a statement on his return from a tour of central and northern B.C. in which he asked for a highway authority "to remove our road planning from the straight political considerations now in control."

"Inconsistent patchwork paving is evident everywhere in the province . . . there is more vote-catching politics in public works today than for the past 20 years," he said.

The Liberal leader said that in Savona, in the home riding of Public Works Minister Gaglardi, rerouting of the Trans Canada Highway paralleled the old road running through the centre for about 1½ miles, but only 200 yards away from it.

"I charge this is a scandalous abuse of power and position," he said. "The residents of Savona so objected that now Gaglardi is spending thousands of dollars paving the road through Savona almost to Trans Canada standards."

MUST BE KEPT OPEN

"We must get some sort of highway plan and some authority that will remove our road planning from straight political considerations," he said.

Mr. Laing said the highly-praised northern Transprovincial Highway in the Huston-Burns Lake area had to be planked for long stretches to enable vehices to get through. Trucks have been banned for two and one-half months.

"We must keep these highways open every day in the year for both cars and trucks," he demanded, "and we can't implement this on a pay-as-you-go basis."

"Let's borrow money, put our highways in shape, and actually save dolars in maintenance at the same time, giving us year-round industrial activity.

"Last year Gaglardi spent almost $1,000,000 on the northern Transprovincial Highway, most of it used in submerging rock and gravel into mudholes," he added.

Government, Rebels Claim War Victories

Guatemala Fighting Picture Presents Confusion; New Appeal Made to UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.J. (UP)—Guatemala notified the United Nations today that the anti-Communist invasion of its country is going on despite the cease-fire order adopted by the Security Council on Sunday.

Guatemalan foreign minister Guillermo Toriello, in his third message to the world organization since the fighting began in his central American country, asked the council to take steps to halt the "invasion."

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Government and rebel forces made rival victory claims today in the four-day-old battle for the Central American Republic of Guatemala. Both sides appeared to be mobolizing for a major fight over the key rail town of Zacapa.

President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's government claimed a success for its armed forces at Gualan, east of Zacapa, about 20 miles inside Guatemala. It said the rebels were run out of town after a brief skirmish, but mentioned no casualties.

The "liberation radio," speaking for the invasion forces of the exiled Guatemalan leader, Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, claimed the rebels hold 25 towns in Guatemala.

Associated Press dispatches from Guatemala City Monday night said Arbenz' troops were massing in the area of Zacapa, a city of some 8,000 on the main rail line between the capital and the Caribbean port of Puerto Barrios.

A rebel flier interviewed near the Honduran border said Castillo Armas' men also were moving by truck towards Zacapa. He said the invaders headed for the rail centre after seizing the cathedral town of Esquipulas in a five-hour battle. Three Guatemalan soldiers were reported killed in that engagement.

An informed source in this neighboring Honduran capital indicated that a fight for Zacapa is shaping up. He predicted the rebels would abandon their guerrilla tactics within the next 24 hours and seek a pitched battle with Arbenz' army.

The source also said:

1. At least two Guatemalan pilots have fled their country in training planes since the invasion began Friday.

2. Two railroad bridges at Gualan have been destroyed; sabotage along the line between Gualan and Pureto Barrios has increased; a train which left Guatemala City for the port of San Jose "simply disappeared."

3. The rebels have taken over the rail town of Morales, some 50 miles from Puerto Barrios.
